Canada and Britain Dissent

As the rival cannon thunder out of Asia, it is with difficulty that the British and Canadians maintain their undoubted and sincerely warm relationship with us. It admittedly is a unity of need and mutual appreciation. It was strained by the Suez crisis. Today the ties that bind are not near the fraying point. But the issue of Quemoy and Matsu has caused an uneasiness on the part of our neighbor to the north and our ally across the Atlantic.

Other nations, Britain and Canada conspicuously among them, have insisted that the future of Formosa should, and must, be treated separately from that of Quemoy and Matsu. Their position, in essence, is that these islands, which are but from 1½ to 9 miles from the Communist mainland, cannot in conscience be argued to be a part of Formosa. Geologically they are a part. They are all tortured in form, rock strewn and mountainous. The smaller ones were left by some volcanic eruption with rock formations resembling fallen skyscrapers. But Formosa is 90 miles away.

So, the British, with their great sense and acceptance of what seems to be reality, persist in the thesis that Formosa may be made into something else—perhaps an independent U.N. trustee state—Formosa for Formosans—and that Red China be given the islands, which are unimportant insofar as use is concerned, and have done with it.

Paid Ad

This week New York newspapers published a paid ad from the Globe and Mail of Toronto, Canada. It is one of the leading newspapers of that country. It calls itself "Canada's National Newspaper."

The New York Times ad was a four-column presentation of a Globe and Mail editorial titled "The Folly of Formosa." It is a fierce attack on the Western position. It states, with a certain air of bombast, that Western policy has created unnecessary "friction points."

The Chiang government is described as "synthetic," consisting of "a defeated army which was driven from the mainland nine years ago." The protection of this island, to the tune of a billion dollars by the United States, is subjected to harsh treatment. Recognition of Chiang's government as the government of China is assailed as a "ridiculous pretension" likely to lead to war. Western policies are denounced as "irrational."

The editorial concludes:

"In politics, as in everything else, nothing but disaster can come from evading reality."

This is, of course, but one view. Nonetheless, it comes close to revealing majority opinion in Canada and Britain.

The strength of their position lies in the fact that Chiang Kai-shek, who assuredly has many good points, was for 22 years head of the Chinese government and that in that time it was marked by wholesale corruption and a steady loss of public support.

Strong Position

After the end of the second world war his position seemed so strong that even the greatest of realists, Joe Stalin, accepted him as the winner and made a treaty with his government. There was then a coolness between Mao Tse-tung and Stalin. But from that moment on Chiang's grip loosened.

There is another side.

First of all, we morally are bound to support the Chinese on Formosa. It is perhaps true we wish there were some other young, new leader. Almost no one believes the Chinese people on the mainland have any affection for Chiang.

Here again we seem trapped in frustration by our determination on morality in foreign relations—as opposed to pure pragmatism.

Also, it is the best of realism to understand that surrender of the offshore islands—or the taking of them by the Communists—will be a tremendous, and in some instances a decisive propaganda victory for communism. It would tend to orient most of free Asia toward Peiping.

It presently is one of those damned-if-we-do-and-damned-if-we-don't situations.

The President has summoned Secretary Dulles for a conference. If you have prayers now is a time to say them.

Judge Refuses Norfolk Schools Integration Stay

By The Associated Press

The Norfolk, Va. school board's plea for a delay in school integration until next year was turned down Wednesday by a U.S. district judge.

But Judge Walter E. Hoffman said he may reconsider if the U.S. Supreme Court grants Little Rock, Ark., a 2½-year delay in school mixing or grants a review of that case. In that event, he said, he would entertain a motion to retransfer 17 Negro children the Norfolk School Board planned to assign to white schools.

The Supreme Court will hear arguments on the Little Rock case Sept. 11.

6 NEGROES

In another Virginia case, a federal judge was told the applications of six Negroes to attend a white school in Arlington County was turned down because of low achievement.

Dr. Barnard Joy, school board member, told U.S. Dist. Judge Albert V. Bryan that was the reason for rejecting the six. He testified Wednesday at a hearing in Alexandria to determine whether 30 Negroes must be admitted to various white schools in the county, across the river from Washington, D.C.

The Arlington County School Board advised teachers that school openings, already postponed from Thursday to Monday, may be further delayed.

LIMITED MIXING

Limited mixing of the races proceeded in a number of Southern states. A demonstration occurred at Greensboro, N.C., where a small group displaying a Ku Klux Klan banner and a Confederate flag, gathered in front of the Gillespie Park School. When five Negro children arrived a white man carrying a KKK banner followed them a few steps and a bystander heckled them. But the five attended the brief opening session without trouble. Three of the five attended the school last year.

Fears that Negroes would attempt to enroll at a Birmingham, Ala., high school touched off a demonstration. One student was hit in the head with a brick, a policeman was slugged and three men were arrested. All were white.

The fears were groundless be-

Injured at Checkers, Worker Can't Collect

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—A worker injured while playing checkers on his lunch hour cannot collect from his employer, the Workmen's Compensation Commission ruled.

Herve T. Millette of Woonsocket had sued the Taft-Peirce Manufacturing Co., charging that his stool slipped as he pushed himself back from a lunch hour game last April.

Said WCC Commissioner Donald A. Kinsley: "It is difficult to see where a game of checkers during the noon hour could be called in any way an accident of his employment."

Pastor King Jailed, Hits 'Brutality'

From Wire Reports

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Police arrested Negro minister Martin Luther King for loitering Wednesday and the leader of the Montgomery bus boycott said later he was manhandled and thrown into a dark, bare cell.

King said that police also threatened to arrest his wife outside a courtroom. He blamed the incident on "people in power" rather than the police and expressed repentance for the whole nation—"from the President on down"—for an attitude of "retreat and slow up" toward the Negroes' drive for equality.

MAKES BAIL

Police Chief J. G. Ruppenthal said that King was placed in a regular detention cell at City Hall for "about 10 minutes" and then was allowed to make his own bail. He said the minister had refused to move from a courtroom doorway when asked and was arrested.

"As far as I know, there was nothing rough or unusual in this case," Ruppenthal said.

King signed a $100 bond for appearance in City Court Friday to answer the loitering charge. As he left City Hall he was surrounded by a crowd of Negroes protesting his arrest. Some wept.

ARRESTED AT ENTRANCE

The minister was arrested at the courtroom entrance at the city hall where he had gone to attend a hearing for a Negro accused of attacking another integration leader, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy.

King said he was standing outside the courtroom when officers asked him and other Negroes to move on.

"I asked for a lawyer and they said 'If you don't get down out of here you are going to need a lawyer'," King said.

One grabbed him and said "We're going to throw you in jail right now," King continued. He said police held his arms behind him "as if they were trying to break them.

"When we got inside (the jail) a couple of them grabbed me in the collar and choked me severely. I was about to lose my breath. They searched me and pushed me and kicked me into the cell. It was a single cell, very dark, no chair and nothing in it."

Boy, 7, Dies As Bicycle Hits Car Here

A 7-year-old boy was killed Wednesday when the bicycle he was riding struck an automobile at Brookview and Kipling drives, NW, police said.

The child, Thomas Hunter Parker, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed L. Parker, of 2000 Brookview Dr., NW, was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital. His neck was broken, Patrolman C. L. Queen said.

Queen said the lad was racing downhill with another bicycling youth when the tragedy occurred. He said the car had stopped before the bicycle struck it.

No charge was placed against the driver Thomas Purse, 51, of 1017 Northcliff Dr., NW, a department store salesman, Queen said. Purse told police he was driving west on Kipling when he saw the boys racing downhill on Brookview, which dead ends into Kipling.

Purse said Thomas Parker was looking back at his companion and when he turned and saw the car the boy was unable to stop.

Queen said Purse stopped before he reached the intersection.

C130 Carrying 17 Lost on Flight From Turkey

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) — A C130 Hercules transport plane on a flight from Adana, Turkey, is missing with 17 persons aboard, the U.S. Air Force here announced Wednesday night.

The plane was last heard from at 7:42 a.m. e.d.t. Tuesday. It had been scheduled to return to Adana 2:40 p.m. e.d.t. the same day. An extensive search has been conducted by rescue units since it was reported overdue.

U.S. To Send In Troops If Chiang Can't Repulse A Chinese Red Invasion

Dulles Flying To Meet With President Today

By E. W. KENWORTHY

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—The United States will intervene if the Chinese Communists launch an attack on Quemoy that threatens to overwhelm the National Chinese forces on the island, diplomatic sources here said Wednesday.

These sources said that it was their understanding from conversations with high State department officials that in the event of a Communist assault, the United States would first wait to see whether the nationalist Chinese garrison could repulse it.

If it became apparent that the defenders could not defend the island and were in danger of being destroyed or captured, then, according to these informants, the United States would throw its forces into action.

DULLES GOING TO IKE

Secretary of State Dulles will fly to Newport, R.I., Thursday morning to confer with President Eisenhower on the crisis in the Taiwan (Formosa) straits brought on by the 12-day bombardment of the Quemoy group lying just off the Chinese mainland.

Dulles will leave National Airport at 7:30 E.S.T. and fly to the naval air station on Narragansett Bay where he will transfer to a helicopter that will take him to Eisenhower's vacation quarters at Fort Adams. He will return early in the afternoon.

Late Wednesday afternoon Dulles met for an hour with Secretary of Defense McElroy, Donald A. Quarles, deputy secretary of defense, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, in preparation for his talks with the President.

SEATO HUDDLE

Meanwhile, there were these other developments Wednesday on the Quemoy situation:

1. Dulles met for an hour Wednesday morning with the chiefs of mission here of the other seven members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. After the meeting, Ambassador Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, acting as spokesman for the group, said there had been an "exchange of views" on the situation, but refused to give any details.

2. In Taipei, Vice Adm. Roland N. Smoot, senior U.S. commander on Taiwan, said that more American help "is coming" to strengthen the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

3. Secretary of Defense McElroy, returning from the American Legion convention in Chicago, told reporters at the National Airport that in his judgment the

FORTSON, IN CHAIR, PERSONALLY INSPECTS CUPOLA REPAIR WORK

Architect, Engineer and Aides Accompany Capitol Custodian on Construction Elevator

Fortson Decides Dome Will Be Gold All Over

The entire dome of the Capitol will be covered with gold leaf, instead of just the cupolo and ridges.

This was decided Wednesday after Secretary of State Ben Fortson Jr.—although confined to a wheelchair—made a 220-foot ascent via construction elevator.

Fortson said there were some decisions about the work of repairing the dome which he could make only after seeing the problems at first hand.

He concluded that the cupola atop the dome must be completely rebuilt. It is only sheet metal, Fortson said.

Workmen began applying an alloy to replace the old covering.

Another Picture on Page 5

Painters will give the alloy three coats of paint and then apply a sizing compound. The gold leaf—to be rolled and hammered ever so thin out of 43 ounces of gold contributed for the purpose—will be applied to the sticky sizing with a brush.

The thinness of the gold leaf is shown in the fact the 43 ounces are destined to cover 8,000 square feet of dome.

The face-lifting will be completed about Oct. 1, architect Thomas Bradbury said. He said the new look will stand up under the elements for about 25 years.

When Fortson, whose duties include supervision of the capitol and grounds, returned from his summit trip, he was shown a bucket of paint which workmen left on a dome-decorating job 70 years ago. The paint was still in good condition. A brush in the bucket had stiffened, but was in remarkably good condition.

Lumpkin County citizens staged a gold rush and donated 43 ounces of gold for the project.

Wednesday Bradbury said enough gold was on hand and there is enough money in the budget to plate the entire dome.

Gulf Coast Braces for 70-Mile Ella

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Gulf of Mexico coast Wednesday night began bracing for a possible hurricane although tropical storm Ella remained a poorly defined mass west of Cuba.

The Weather Bureau said Ella, circulating more freely over the Gulf waters, apparently would organize better during the night and return to hurricane intensity by Thursday.

PICKS UP SPEED

The storm whipped up winds between 40 and 70 miles an hour in squalls extending 250 miles east and north of the center.

A slight increase in speed of the storm's west-northwest movement was observed, from 10 to 12 miles an hour in the four hours between 8 and 10 p.m.

About the same rate of movement or slightly faster was expected Wednesday night and Thursday.

The Weather Bureau located the storm north of the Yucatan Channel.

SQUALLS ON GULF

The central Gulf Coast was warned that scattered squalls and rough seas were expected. Small craft from Galveston, Tex., to Pensacola, Fla., were advised to remain in port.

The Weather Bureau said all interests around the northwestern Gulf of Mexico should watch for future advices.

State Asks New Paint Formula

The state will abandon plans to make its own highway centerline paint if the Highway department approves a new set of specifications, Gov. Griffin indicated Wednesday.

His announcement followed a meeting with representatives of the Atlanta Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Assn., who opposed the state's going into the paint business.

"I'm essentially a private enterprise man," Griffin declared.

GRIFFIN'S IDEA

(Griffin had suggested the state make its own paint after he said he learned that one interest had bid in the names of three different companies on a recent bidding.)

The governor said the representative of a major paint manufacturing concern reported that the state is now purchasing yellow centerline paint at a lower price than it can manufacture the paint.

Griffin said the paint men told him other states buy paint for less because they do not require so much ochre (pigment) as Georgia does.

NEED REVISION

"We need to revise the specifications the Highway department has been using for 30 years, to modernize them," the governor said.

The local paint association will contact the National Paint and Varnish Assn. for further information on specifications and re-

Ships Crash Off Iceland In Fish War

By EDDY GILMORE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — An Icelandic gunboat and the British trawler Burfell collided at sea in the fishing war Wednesday. Tempers heated up, just as they might in a traffic smash ashore, but there was no repetition of Tuesday's hand-to-hand battles.

"Angry words were exchanged," said Iceland's coast guard.

The weight of the coast guard gunboat Albert crushed the Burfell's trawling tackle. The British fishermen seized bottles and water hoses to repel boarders. It never came to a fight.

MANNED GUNS

Up sailed the royal navy frigate Eastbourne, still carrying nine Icelandic coastguardsmen plucked from a boarded British trawler Tuesday. Its guns were manned.

The gunboat, which charged that the Burfell caused the collision by swerving suddenly, didn't press the issue.

The incident was off the northwest coast within the 12-mile limit Iceland set up Sept. 1 in an effort to keep foreigners out of fishing grounds traditionally trawled by ships of several North European nations.

A war of nerves raged meanwhile on land.

There were reports that the British trawlers operating inside the zone would leave soon. The coast guard said 24 out of an original fleet of 60 still are fishing under British naval protection but are catching next to nothing.

The coast guard is serving legal summonses by shortwave radio to the 24, ordering them to stop fishing, head into port and face trial. Such trials in the days when Iceland's limit was four miles usually resulted in fining of a violator and confiscation of its catch.

IGNORE SUMMONS

The British skippers are ignoring the radio summonses.

Britain warned Iceland in a diplomatic note that it reserves the right to claim compensation for harm done to British interests and insisted the area involved constitutes part of the high seas.

At the same time, the British government invited the Icelanders to open talks on a fisheries agreement acceptable to all parties concerned.

Truman Urges 'Gamble' on Arms, Labels Ike's Policies 'Disastrous'

By AUSTIN C. WEHRWEIN

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

CHICAGO — Former President Truman Wednesday assailed the Eisenhower administration's defense program philosophy as "wicked" and "disastrous."

This country, Truman said, was behind in the ballistic missile race with the Soviets and also lagged in the modernization of conventional forces while at the same time the size of the Army, Navy and Air Force has been cut since he left office in 1953.

Truman called for creation of "the strongest of defenses" and added:

"It is wicked, not only wicked but disastrous, to say that we cannot do this without bankrupting our economy."

He departed from the text of his prepared speech to the national American Legion convention in the Chicago Stadium to take direct issue with a Legionnaire dinner speech Tuesday night by Secretary of Defense McElroy.

Tuesday night McElroy had said: "There is a point, however, beyond which gambling huge sums on untried weapons would be foolhardy—would in fact, endanger the economic, and even the military security of the country."

Wednesday, Truman recalled the $2,500,000,000 the late President Roosevelt had put into the atomic bomb during World War II "and stopped the war." Reading from his text, Truman said: "Suppose he had been timid and had failed to take the chance."

Then Truman extemporized: "As you were told yesterday that no gamble would be taken now to meet the situation—wouldn't we be in a hell of a fix if Roosevelt had taken that attitude?"

Truman's speech, which was interrupted eight times by applause. was in fact written before McElroy spoke Tuesday night.

Nevertheless, by coincidence even in the prepared form it joined issue with the defense secretary's case for the administration at the crucial points.

McElroy had said that the United States led the USSR in

NEW YORK (AP)—Back from a motor tour of Europe, Clemens Uhlhorn, a Cincinnati realtor, and his family waited four hours on a Hudson River pier Wednesday for the unloading of their 1958 car.

Finally, a crane swung out a hoisting platform from the liner New York with the Uhlhorn car aboard—but, oops! The platform tilted, the car slid off and vanished into the Hudson River. Uhlhorn said he'll stick around until it's brought up from the 40-foot depth.

Gubernatorial Camps Swap Bitter Charges

By WILLIAM M. BATES

Constitution Political Editor

The Vandiver and Bodenhamer camps exchanged heated charges Wednesday over campaign tactics being used in the gubernatorial race.

The exchange grew out of reports that Bodenhamer forces are attaching "NAACP ENDORSED" stickers to Vandiver campaign posters.

James L. Gillis Sr. of Soperton, state campaign manager for Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver, laid the action at the doorstep of William T. Bodenhamer and State Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams Senior.

Gillis called it a "childish, demented stunt." Gillis said, "Never before in the history of the most partisan, bitter and guttersniping politics has the tactics of the opposition reached such a low point."

Williams fired back with a statement accusing Gillis and the Atlanta newspapers of spreading "malicious lies" about the candidate he is backing. He said Vandiver's forces are "trying desperately to stem the slide down the skids of the segregation weakling—Vandiver."

He repeated a prediction that Bodenhamer would take 135 coun-

British Crack Down To Curb Race Riots

Immigration Bars Expected If Disturbances Are Continued

By DREW MIDDLETON

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

LONDON—The British government formally announced Wednesday night that "utmost strictness" would be used to curb the race riots that have erupted in London and Nottingham.

The announcement was issued from 10 Downing St. shortly after Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had conferred on racial disturbances with R. A. Butler who, as home secretary, is the Cabinet minister concerned.

Disturbances occurred for the first time in daylight Wednesday when young rowdies hurled stones and milk bottles through the windows of houses of Negroes in the Harlesden and Willesden districts in northwest London.

After nightfall, fights between whites and Negroes broke out in the Paddington area and 19 persons, all whites, were arrested. They were charged with using insulting behavior and obstructing police.

GHANA PROTEST

Shortly before the government announcement, the high commissioner of Ghana, one of the Negro states of the British commonwealth, had protested the involvement of Ghana citizens in the rioting.

The government statement declared, "Utmost strictness will be observed in the impartial enforcement of the law and in preventing the illegal carrying of offensive weapons."

The public was urged to show "utmost discretion" in avoiding disturbances.

EASY IMMIGRATION

The statement revealed that the Cabinet has been examining problems arising from unrestricted immigration to Britain from commonwealth countries and British colonies. This study will continue, the statement added, but the government does not think it right to take long-term decisions "except after careful consideration of the problem as a whole."

This was interpreted by officials as a strong hint that if the riots and disturbances continue, serious consideration will be given to the introduction of legislation restricting immigration.

The Cabinet is aware, one authoritative source said, that an economic recession in this country would exacerbate white feeling toward the Negro workers who have flooded into Britian in the last six years.

U.S. Urges U.N. Space Controls

Would Guarantee Peaceful Exploring

(Copyright 1958, The New York Times Co.)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The United States asked the United Nations Wednesday to take steps to promote the development of outer space for peaceful purposes as an "important and urgent matter."

The request was made in a memorandum formally proposing that the forthcoming General Assembly consider as a new item: "A program for international cooperation in the field of outer space." The assembly's 13th session is scheduled to open here Sept. 16.

A four-fold approach was suggested in the memorandum submitted by Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. delegate, as a means of laying a solid basis for future actions. In essence, this would have the 81-member Assembly go on record as favoring establishment of international machinery to deal with this new field and would also set up a committee to blueprint further Assembly action.

Other aspects of this approach would be to have the Assembly—probably by resolution—go on record as supporting the peaceful utilization of outer space ahd as recognizing that this issue was separate from the question of disarmament on which the West and Soviet bloc remain at odds.

The United States has put considerable emphasis on the point that the outer-space item should be considered as separate and distinct from military matters.

This differs from the position of the Soviet Union, which five months ago also asked for an Assembly debate on outer space but tied this in with a renewal of Moscow's demands for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from overseas bases.

U.S. sources indicated today that they did not expect any difficulty in getting Assembly approval by a majority vote for the inclusion of the new item. However, a controversy could develop if efforts were made to talk about the Soviet and U.S. items at the same time.

Family Tries Voodoo To Stop Mystery Fires

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—Both black magic and modern science were being used Wednesday in an effort to solve or stop forever the mysterious fires that have plagued Calvin Tuck and his family.

Police questioned the 32-year-old Tuck Tuesday about the strange series of fires which have driven him from three houses. They found packages of seed which the Negro man said had been given him by a voodoo doctor.

Tuck said he and his wife visited the practitioner of occult arts at the urging of friends who insisted someone had put a hex on him.

Meanwhile W. L. Sowell, associate state toxicologist, was brought into the case to make a chemical analysis of objects which have blazed up without apparent cause.

Authorities who have been skeptical of the blazes—suspecting an arsonist—hope the analysis will show whether some combustible chemical had been smeared on the items which caught fire.

There have been 32 mysterious fires in and around three houses occupied by the Tucks beginning last week. Police Lt. Ben Cooley saw a quilt burst into flames when he went to the third house to talk with Tuck. County Commissioner Leslie R. Hutto also has witnessed the weird phenomenon.

There have been no fires since the Tucks moved Tuesday to the home of his father, whose parental affection outweighed his fear of the fires that Tuck might bring with him.

Officers made a careful search of Tuck's clothing while talking to him Tuesday and found the seeds.

Tuck said the witch doctor had prescribed medicine to counteract any evil spirits which might be harassing him.

Ingredients of the prescription were a half-pint of vinegar, two gourd seeds, two six-penny nails, three straight pins and a biscuit. He was told to put the mixture in a bottle which was to be buried upside down at a 45-degree angle.

In addition to talking to Tuck, officers also questioned about 20 acquaintances and relatives in their search for clues to the cause of the fires.

Hundreds of Diapers Later, Mother of 4 Wants Baby Back

TIMPERLEY, England (AP)—Two months ago Mrs. Sheila Winkley startled Britain by giving away her newborn baby daughter because, she said, she couldn't face washing any more diapers. Now she wants her baby back.

"I suppose it's the mother instinct," 25-year-old Mrs. Winkley told a newsman "I keep thinking about Janet and wishing I hadn't given her away."

Tuesday night Mrs. Winkley—who has washed plenty of diapers while raising her three other children—went to Strangeways jail in Manchester to tell her husband she wanted Janet back. He is serving a one-year term for stealing.

Mrs. Joyce Lee, who adopted Janet at birth, wasn't answering her door or telephone Wednesday after hearing Mrs. Winkley's latest decision. She said she was afraid it might be Mrs. Winkley saying, "Give me my baby back."

Fulton Candidates Roll Out Big Guns for Election Showdown

Fulton County candidates Wednesday night rolled up their artillery for the closing campaign. Election day was only a week away.

Speaking at rallies, the candidates relied chiefly on repeated fire but indicated that slashing attacks are yet to come.

H. H. (Hoover) Mabry charged that commissioner James H. Aldredge has paved roads for friends and said the paving of a road to the Cherokee Country Club "cannot be justified." He said that if Aldredge had ever been investigated by a grand jury "he probably wouldn't be in office now."

Aldrirge said, "I'm a businessman, but I've worked all my life for where I've gotten."

Sen. Charlie Brown declared that he is for home rule and that his opponent, former Sen. G. Everett Millican is against home rule.

Millican said he would fight high interest rates of small loan companies, advocate consolidations in state government and sew up loopholes in government policies.

Rep. Wilson Brooks reasserted that if his opponent had been sincere in wanting to represent the people "he wouldn't have quit two years ago."

Lokey retaliated by attacking his opponent's record in the legislature and proposed "a complete reorganization of state government from top to bottom" to streamline it.

Rep. Ralph McClelland said he had only one promise to make: "To try and represent every segment of the population."

Harold Vaughan, seeking McClelland's seat, said the powers given to aldermen in a proposed bill are too strong and it should have a referendum vote before action is taken.

Both F. W. (Buddy) Griffin Jr. and Franklin Rodgers, opponents of Rep. M. M. (Muggsy) Smith, hit Smith in their verbal attacks. Griffin charged Smith had only been present in the legislature "50 per cent or less of the time" during its 40 days of business. Rodgers said all "Muggy does is talk cute to the voters. . .well, his cuteness is going to be over Sept. 10."

Smith, who arrived too late to hear his opponent's talks, said he had no fear of opposition. "I've been elected six times and defeated all comers, and I'm about to do it again."

Judge Moore Fills His Position Well

One of the Fulton County judicial races in particular seems to us to merit close examination by the voters on Sept. 10.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore's strong charge to the incoming grand jury to be sure that Revenue Commissioner T. V. (Red) Williams carries out his promise to comply with merit system regulations is one of many examples of his vigor and strict attention to the public's welfare.

His record is a magnificent one.

This newspaper, where judgeships are concerned, gives great weight to the poll of the bar association. Certainly the practicing lawyers know how to evalue how a judge conducts the business of a court and the trial of cases.

The Fulton County Bar Assn. voted overwhelmingly for Judge Moore. The vote ran close to 100 per cent among almost 600 lawyers as to his being best qualified.

Judge Moore is opposed by attorney Wesley R. Asinof. Much of Mr. Asinof's practice has been in defense of lottery and other criminal cases. That these persons should have legal representation is certainly proper. But we doubt this qualifies one for the bench.

Mr. Asinof has attacked Judge Moore as being too old.

Somehow we like to think of older judges as having accumulated wisdom and knowledge. Judge Moore is hale and hearty. He comes of a family noted for longevity. We think his age is an asset the voters should not overlook.

This newspaper is happy to agree with the almost 100 per cent vote of the bar association that Judge Moore is the best qualified and recommend him for re-election as a judge of Fulton Superior Court.

In a second judicial race Judge Charles A. Wofford, a young man with years of experience in municipal court, won a slight majority in the best-qualified category over Judge J. Everett Thrift of the Fulton Criminal Court.

State Has Responsibility In Atlanta Tax Dilemma

The City of Atlanta must have substantially more income to meet demands of growth or, in the blunt words of Alderman James E. Jackson, go to seed.

The question is not one of whether the city's revenue will be increased but how.

A proposed 25 per cent hike to be borne by property owners would add unfairly to the heavy burden they already carry as the result of the state's severe restrictions upon municipalities when it comes to finding new tax sources.

Once again the growing need for a practical form of home rule emerges crystal clear. Once the long, tedious process of attaining it is completed—and eventually it must—then a way must be devised to divide the tax load fairly among all who derive benefits from the city.

In addition to its fast growth, there is another reason Atlanta faces a financial dilemma. It is spelled out in the Buehler report, issued last year, which pointed out that Atlanta receives relatively little state aid, ranking 18th among 20 major cities and eighth among nine large Southern cities.

Its financial contributions to the state far outweigh the returns received.

This fact, coupled with the financial strait jacket in which the city is bound, leaves the property owner as the principal victim. His recourse is through the State Capitol rather than City Hall.

Sol. Webb Takes Action While Cook Drags Feet

Fulton County Solicitor Paul Webb has acted forthrightly and in the public interest in filing a suit in superior court attempting to stop the state highway department from continuing to pay a salary to Banks Talmadge.

In the suit Mr. Webb charges that employe Talmadge has not worked at the job since Nov. 22, 1956, but has continued to be paid $265 per month. The charge is that Banks Talmadge has not even reported for work during this time.

Solicitor Webb states that he had no recourse since Gov. Griffin has stated that he will keep the employe on the payroll even though he does nothing to earn the money. The suit further alleges that Banks Talmadge is one of three highway employes who have been paid $24,000 of taxpayers' money for not working.

Solicitor Webb could have gone further and said that he had no recourse since the state's attorney general did nothing to protect public money in this case. State Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook is becoming known as a do-nothing attorney general who seemingly likes to move only when the political wind is blowing his way. That he did not act promptly in this case is an example.

Solicitor Webb some years ago saved Fulton County a large sum of money by filing a suit challenging a timber sale by a majority of the then existing county commission. If he can halt the payment of tax money to state employes who do no work he will again earn the appreciation of the people of this county and others.

These Campaign Tactics Come from the Gutter

The anger of James L. Gillis over tactics being used by the Rev. W. T. Bodenhamer and his few supporters in the governor's race is understandable and certainly justified.

While these tactics scarcely deserve being dignified with public notice, Mr. Gillis, as campaign manager for Ernest Vandiver, is right in calling attention to the gutter-type of campaign being conducted in desperation by Mr. Bodenhamer and his behind-the-scenes manipulator, T. V. Williams.

"Never before in the history of the most partisan, bitter and guttersniping politics have the tactics of the opposition reached such a low point," Mr. Gillis declared.

We would add that never in the history of politics or religion has a man who calls himself a minister of the gospel engaged in such an orgy of untruths, slanders, misrepresentations and deception. His program for Georgia is so filled with hate and confusion that only the blind can fail to see through it.

Mr. Bodenhamer's chief strategist and apparently his chief financier is Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams of private moonshine fund fame. This same Mr. Williams currently is under indictment by the Fulton County Grand Jury in connection with said fund.

What are Mr. Williams' motives? What are the motives of a so-called minister of the gospel who would lend himself to being used in such a game of sewer politics? Why the spending of huge sums so freely for no purpose the public can see except possibly revenge?

The Bodenhamer campaign has been conducted on such a low plane that even the best practitioners of political demagoguery in the state have been shocked and surprised. It is bound to be repudiated by such a majority that those who have engaged in it will be removed permanently and to the state's benefit from the political scene.

Revisions Are Needed In Financing Education

Enrollment in Georgia public schools continues to grow at a rate faster than facilities are provided.

Nearly a million students answered the opening bell Tuesday. The State Department of Education reported a shortage of approximately 3,000 adequate classrooms in various systems.

More classrooms and equipment, more teachers and other personnel add up to an increasingly heavy bill that must be met without sacrificing quality.

The movement to consolidate schools must be intensified.

The state must demand that education be accorded increased financial support at the local level in all areas now making only token contributions.

It also becomes increasingly important that the state extend more effort than it has in the past toward helping solve the financial problems of heavily populated school systems that are paying their share of the education bill.

Fulton County, for instance, is so hard-pressed that another bond issue is necessary for school building purposes. The new Guy Webb school at Sandy Springs, expecting 437 students for its first term, had 789 to register. The county's other new school, Dodson Drive Elementary in East Point, already is packed to capacity.

A number of schools elsewhere in the state are bursting at the seams while others, due to population declines, have empty desks.

The state must be guided accordingly in revising its complicated formulae for providing finances.

Dallas Morning News

A Dallas audience was told by a state traffic safety expert a few weeks back that the means of cutting in half our casualty toll in car accidents is readily accessible. Proposed was adoption in toto by Texas of the uniform driving code, recommended by the White House Conference on Highway Safety.

The code is not oppressive. It is common sense. It makes finable and sometimes jail offenses of many of the things that motorists do carelessly at a risk to themselves and others.

Newcomer to Atlanta Urges Rapid Transit From Heart of Downtown to the Airport

Atlanta — Just two years ago I transferred from Lockheed's California Division and subsequently arrived in Atlanta with some preconceived doubts relative to the wisdom of making the South my future and permanent home. I am happy to be able to say these doubts have long since vanished and my residence in Georgia has been the most pleasant period in my life. I speak for my family and we sincerely believe that more people would be attracted to this area if they were acquainted with Southern living as we have experienced it. . . .

With few exceptions all large cities are plagued by a complete lack of efficient transportation to and from airports. In the jet age just around the corner it will seem peculiar for a passenger to spend an hour or more to reach his plane for a three-hour flight to Los Angeles.

I would like to suggest consideration be given to a plan whereby the existing tracks of the Central Railroad (with the addition of a short spur) be utilized to convey passengers to and from the air terminal. A streamlined, high speed, motorized car easily could be designed and built for this purpose. The benefits to be derived from such transportation are obvious and too numerous to list in this letter. From downtown Atlanta to the airport in 15 minutes!

Town Reminds Son Of Today's Georgia

Atlanta — Recently our family was watching a television program in which a lawless and unscrupulous group of men were controlling and dominating to their own substantial interest a small town in Texas in the 1870's.

About halfway through the picture my son turned to me and said, "It looks very much like Georgia today, doesn't it?"

Should Kindergarten Be Mandatory, Too?

Atlanta — After hearing the comments on television and reading the views presented in The Constitution editorial page, one is forced to think of the ruling on 6-year-olds in a personal manner.

So you do have a large number of children repeating the first grade. Is the State Board of Education going to attempt to eliminate that situation by forcing average and above-average children to remain out of school a full year simply because they happened to be born after Sept. 1?

I offer two solutions to the problem of immature 6-year-olds repeating the first grade. 1. Make kindergarten mandatory for 5-year-olds. 2. If the ruling is retained, it should be amended to apply only to those children who have not had at least one year of kindergarten.

MRS. FRANKLIN E. PERKINS,
Junior.

State Board Asked To Rescind Ruling

Atlanta — With reference to the State Board of Eucation's new regulation which will require a first grader to have reached his sixth birthday by Sept. 1, we, the undersigned, wish to protest this ruling and insist that it be rescinded.

We feel the Sept. entry rule will prove a distinct drawback to many children.

The regulation will probably cause some students to drop out before completing a thorough education, the marriage age having been reached several years earlier. Also, various enlightening features of progress, such as television and travel, have accelerated the learning degree to the extent that today's children are ready for formal instruction much sooner than in past years.

Voters Guild Cites Home Rule Booklet

Atlanta—Your fine editorial recently called for the unity of our legislators on a home rule plan for Atlanta. While this is a valid request, it seems more important for Atlanta citizens to understand and evaluate the kind of home rule they want. The best kind of home rule will grow out of genuine citizen desire for it — and their clearcut understanding of the rights and responsibilities involved. The task of the legislators in translating this kind of directive is comparatively an easy one.

To this end, the Atlanta Voters Guild has published a booklet on home rule, giving its historical background, discussing its pros and cons, analyzing the various kinds and types of home rule and describing experiences in certain other communities with home rule.

Those interested in having a copy should write our office at 416 Grand Theater Building, Atlanta, Ga.

President, Atlanta Voters Guild.

Smear and Fear Tactics Disqualify Bodenhamer

We reiterate our position favoring Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver for governor in the forthcoming Democratic primary. Picking him as our candidate was not done yesterday or the day before, but nearly four years ago when he spoke to the Eighth District Press Assn. meeting in Douglas.

His sterling character, caliber and ability impressed us then. These traits impress us far more now as we have eyed him at work in state government. We believe he possesses a rock of "wills" and a rock of "won'ts."

It is our considered opinion that our part in the election of Mr. Vandiver as governor is our chance to help bring clean government back to Georgia. His wide, unsoiled experience in state affairs makes him by far the pick of the three seeking the post and best suited to do the housecleaning job.

Mr. Bodenhamer's "Smear, Fear and Scare" campaign tactics disqualify him as a real contender for the state's top office and, we predict, when the vote counting is over will leave him a weaker man and preacher.

All the hollering about segregation in Georgia on Mr. Bodenhamer's part is rot. In Georgia we will have segregation. The people of Georgia will see to that. Segregation will be continued even if Ike were governor and members of the Supreme Court his "palace guards." Georgians simply will not accept anything else. Mr. Bodenhamer cannot tell us otherwise.

Important, too, in a rural county like Atkinson is solid help in securing industry to bolster our tottering farm economy. Mr. Vandiver has pledged his best efforts in this respect. In this, we are sure, the preacher would fall far short, for we are convinced by his campaign talks that his call to sound business would fall on deaf ears.

To place Atkinson County in the Vandiver column on Sept. 10 will mean that as Georgia's next governor Ernest Vandiver will lend every effort to steer industry this way, give us our share of state and rural roads and, last but not least, visit us occasionally as a mutual friend.

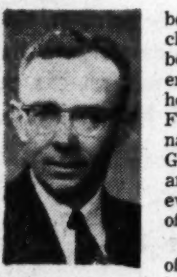
Teacher Town No Mean City

We might as well come to order this morning with Edna Morris Pfaender's story from Hartwell about the class of 10 - yr. - olds whose teacher had told them to write a story on some category of cleanliness and good health. One boy came back to class with a treatise entitled "Care of the Teeth." Listed in order, he had: (1) See your dentist often. (2) Brush your teeth every morning and every night. (3) Watch out for shovers at the drinking fountain.



And did you realize, if all the teachers in the public schools of Georgia lived in one town, Teacherville would be bigger than LaGrange and almost as big as Rome? It takes 31,000 people to man the classrooms in the state.

ORDER OF MOOSE: "Tev" Reyburn, limerick collector, writes that his own inventions aren't up to the standard he collects, but he ventures this original:

"What a singular plural has moose!
It's not quite the same as in goose.
You must always say geese,
But never say meese.
The plural of moose is more
moose."

Which reminds of the fellow who was sending a mongoose order and didn't know whether to say "mongooses" or "mongeese."

So he wrote: "Send me a mongoose. P.S. Send me one more."

Reds Would Pay Dearly for Quemoy

Three months ago, on the little Island of Quemoy, called Kinmen by the Chinese, I sat sipping hot green tea and talking with a scarred old general named Hu Lien. All day we had traveled over the barren, rocky island looking at the defenses the Nationalists, with our help, had set up there.

He had shown me the guns deep in their caves cut into solid rock, the troops' quarters deep in tunnels in the mountains, the sunken roads by which his forces could move from place to place protected from Red fire. We had looked down from the heights at the narrow beaches staked with steel stakes, mined, covered with great loops and tangles of barbed wire.

"If the Reds should come," I asked him, "what would happen?"

He rubbed his shiny bullet head, his scarred face twisted.

"They came once before," he said. "In 1946. We killed them. We will kill them if they come again.

"They can bomb us here," he went on. "They can force us underground. But what can their bombing do against men protected deep in the rocks, with food and ammunition enough to last for months?"

The old man did not seem to be boasting. Our military advisors have done a fine job on Quemoy. We have furnished Chiang's troops the guns and ammunition they need. We have trained them how to use these guns, how to lay down fields of fire where the trajectory of many guns interlock and overlap. The few areas of flat ground where paratroops might land are staked and covered with the fire of heavy machine guns.

Ta-tan and Erh-tan, the two tiny islands lying in the mouth of Amoy Harbor, are defended just as strongly. On Ta-tan I lowered myself down a rock shaft, from a rocky mountain peak, to a complex of tunnels deep in the earth leading to gun positions commanding the sea approaches overlooking the few narrow rocky beaches where troops might land.

Any Marine who ever saw Saipan or Iwo or Tarawa would know what it would cost in blood to take these islands. There is an old rule of thumb in the military that says an attacking force must be at least five times as strong as the force defending a fortified position.

If Hu Lien's men will fight, and he says they will, Mao can take the islands, all right. But it will cost him half a million men.

Be Good Neighbor Wherever You Go

I think the most inspiring words of President Roosevelt are these: "In the field of world policy, I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor." Those words are usually associated with our friends south of the border, but I think they should refer to our attitude toward all peoples of all nations.

During the past 10 or 15 years we have seen the world shrink. Communication throughout the world is instantaneous. We know of happenings in strange and distant parts of the world within seconds of their occurrence. Many of us are better informed about what is going on thousands of miles away than 50 miles away.

This world of ours has become a neighborhood. It is now up to us to become neighborly.

Nineteen centuries ago Horace said, "Your own safety is at stake when your neighbor's house is in flames." Horace was talking about those who lived within a stone's throw. Today his sentiment includes all of those who live within the range of a jet plane.

The world indeed is now a neighborhood. I covet for America a new appreciation of good neighborliness.

I think most of us try hard to be good neighbors. Through our churches and through all kinds of benevolent groups we give generously to those who need our help in all parts of the world. Food and clothing pour out of this nation in all directions. I thank God that from our abundance we are able to help others and I am even more thankful it is the will of our people that we should help.

Yet I wonder if perhaps much of our giving is not accomplished in the least painful ways. Often it is easier to give a dollar than to give a helping hand.

When I have approached individuals in behalf of some worthy endeavor I have been told: "Yes, I agree with what you say. I want to help. I haven't the time to do anything myself but here is five dollars to help out."

I sometimes want to reply, "Keep your money. I want you—your active interest and participation, your personal identity with this work." We too readily give five dollars, make a notation for our income tax records and give nothing else.

Jesus did not say, "Invest money in my kingdom."

He said, "Follow me. All of you is needed — your heart and mind and enthusiasm."

When Dr. Grenfell went to Labrador he had no money to give to the people but he had a big heart and compassion.

I have read that Dr. Schweitzer's hospital in Africa is poor by our hospital standards and I've heard his work criticized on this account. But such criticism misses the whole art of his endeavor. He did not go to Africa to build a splendid hospital; he went there to repair lives and this he has done as greatly through his warm heart as through his skilled hands.

Does our love for the people of the world travel with our vast monetary donations? If it doesn't, then we are being patronizing neighbors, not good neighbors.

Roscoe Drummond

WASHINGTON—There are two different ways voters can decide how they are going to vote this fall in the congressional elections. They can decide that the principal factor is the capacity and character of the individual candidates—and vote accordingly with little reference to party.

Or they can decide that the principal factor is whether a Democratic majority in the next Congress or a Republican majority would be more in the national interest—and in their own interest — and vote accordingly with little reference to the personality of the candidate.

A sensible case can be made for deciding your vote by either method—or by combining them.

What impresses me, however, is the fact that both parties make it extremely difficult to have any solid basis for knowing in advance what it will mean in the way of policy and action if the voters install a Democratic majority or a Republican majority.

What I am asking is: Can't something be done about this?

If the leaders of the two parties want to increase party responsibility and party accountability, shouldn't there be a congressional platform in the off-year elections as well as a national platform in the presidential elections.

We are all aware that a national platform is not an ironclad guarantee of future action but it does constitute a partial basis of choice between two parties.

If the Republicans want the voters to elect a Republican Congress this fall, why shouldn't they offer the country as clear a statement as possible as to what a Republican majority would mean and something of their agreed legislative plans; in short, a Republican congressional platform for 1959-60?

And the Democrats the same thing.

There are precedents. The Republican members of the House of Representatives issued a "declaration of policy" on the eve of the 1942 congressional elections. In its Mackinac declarations in 1948 the Republican Postwar Advisory Council, serving as an arm of the Republican National Committee, outlined future intentions.

During the past two years the Democratic Advisory Council has issued numerous statements of party policy.

The weakness of these several Republican precedents is that they are even vaguer and fuzzier than most national platforms and give the voter little to get his teeth into. The weakness of the Democratic Advisory Council is that it does not include the party leaders in Congress and is therefore not a reliable guide to future congressional policy.

But these are beginning efforts toward building a congressional platform which will give voters some reason for deciding which party they want to put in charge of Congress.

Neighbors Re-Roof Home For Hospitalized Farmer

Coleman Self, a 50-year-old farmer who is hospitalized with a broken leg, can thank the "good neighbor policy" for the new roof he'll find when he returns to his south Fulton County home.

Residents of the Bishop road-Herndon road community, about three miles south of Fairburn, said Self was injured while trying to reroof his house Tuesday afternoon. He suffered a broken leg when he slipped and fell from the rooftop, they added, and was rushed to Georgia Baptist Hospital in Atlanta.

The idea of turning Self's roof into a community project apparently was hatched Wednesday morning as the women folk of the area began discussing their neighbor's plight over the telephone.

"We thought he deserved some help," one lady reported. "He's really had it hard for the past two years."

She said that in addition to his wife and four children Self has been caring for his bed-ridden mother and ailing father in the Self home.

A swarm of Self's neighbors—most of them fellow members of the Baptist Rest Church—Wednesday afternoon met at the Self home and began completing the unfinished roofing job.

Disability Pay To Widowers of Vets Approved

The disabled widower of a women veteran may now be eligible for Veterans Administration benefits, the VA announced Wednesday.

Under a new law, the unremarried widower of a veteran may receive VA death benefits if:

1. He is incapable of self-maintenance; and
2. He was, at the time of her death, permanently incapable of self-support due to physical or mental disability.

Also, under the new law, dependency payments may be authorized to an eligible living veteran whose husband is not capable of self-maintenance and cannot support himself because of permanent physical or mental disability.

Georgians Lose Plea In Shooting by GI

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP) — President Eisenhower has vetoed a bill to pay Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hollomon of Brooklyn, Ga., $3,189 for injuries suffered when Hollomon was shot by one of two soldiers during an attempted robbery of his store Sept. 2, 1956.

The President said "It is obvious that the two soldiers were not acting in line of duty, and in these circumstances no legal liability could be imposed upon the United States

Won't Allow Reds To Grab Quemoy; Dulles Flying To Meet Ike Today

Chinese would be wise not to launch a major war in the Far East.

4. The Pentagon announced that Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, vice chief of staff of the air force, would leave for Taiwan Thursday morning. Lemay is former commander of the Strategic Air Command.

Although Taiwan is outside the area covered by the SEATO treaty, Joseph W. Reap, State Department spokesman, said that Dulles had asked the SEATO representatives in because "what's happening in the Formosa Strait is of interest to those people who are neighbors."

Those attending the meeting besides Sir Leslie were Australian ambassador Howard Beale, French charge d' affaires Charles Lucet, Pakistan ambassador Mohammed Ali, Philippine ambassador Carlos Romulo, Thai ambassador Thanat Khoman, and British charge d' affaires Lord Hood.

Following the meeting, officials said that Dulles had laid great emphasis on the wording of the Peiping broadcast last week, calling upon the Quemoy garrison to surrender. The broadcast said that "the Chinese people's liberation army has determined to liberate Taiwan, a territory of the fatherland, as well as the offshore islands (Quemoy and Matsu)."

UP TO PRESIDENT

The so-called Formosa resolution passed by Congress in January, 1955, authorizes the President to protect the offshore islands if he determines that an attack upon them is directed at Taiwan.

In his news conference last week the President said that the offshore islands had become more important to the defense of Taiwan because the Chinese Nationalists had deployed nearly one-third of their forces on them.

Asked for comment on Adm. Smoot's statement about more aid for Nationalist China, McElroy pointed out that the Seventh Fleet is being reinforced and that Tactical Air Command units have been moved to the Far East.

NO SABER RATTLERS

"Other than that," he said, "I don't know what Adm. Smoot is talking about."

Asked by a reporter whether "we can lick them," McElroy said:

"We are not a warlike people. we are not disposed to make trouble. We don't want to be rattling sabers and saying we can lick anybody in the world. That is not in our interest."

In answer to another question, he said, "Our interest is not to wage war but to deter. It is my judgment that if the Chinese are wise they will be deterred."

In Taipei dispatches, Smoot was quoted as saying:

"We will lick them. But it takes the combined effort of the spirit of (Nationalist) China and the help of the United States, which is coming, to overcome this immediate situation which is the interdiction of the offshore islands (by the Communists)."

Griffin Hints State Won't Make Paint

port to the governor before a final decision is made.

"All I can do now is take the matter under advisement," Griffin said.

Earlier in the day the governor had added yet another case to the fast-growing list of things he wants his chief investigator, Roger Lawson, to look into.

BID ERASURES

The latest matter concerns some erasures which the Savannah Morning News reported appear on bids submitted for air-conditioning equipment at the Jesup division highway offices.

Architect's estimate of the unit's cost was $25,000, the Savannah paper reported, but a low bid of $37,000 was submitted by Southeastern Air Conditioning of Savannah, which in turn paid a 15 per cent commission to W. R. (Bubba) Johnson, who has been involved in some of the state's former centerline paint business.

Another bid was submitted by an Atlanta firm which handles only window units, and two more by Savannah firms which had not asked the state for bidding invitations, according to the News.

WERE CRAZY

At his morning news conference, Griffin declared: "I think if the folks were low bidders, they were crazy for paying anybody a commission."

He said that if reports were true, there were some "peculiar practices" going on, but added: "I don't know aything about it."

Later Griffin told a reporter, "Leave Johnson out of it. I don't have anything to do with Johnson."

The Savannah paper said the Jesup building cost about 50 per cent more than estimated, but Griffin said the cost was in line with other new division offices at Thomaston and Tennille.

Griffin said convict labor was taken off the Jesup job when the prisoners proved to be inefficient on plumbing and wiring work.

Korea Vets Get Second Chance For Schooling

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Veterans Administration reports new rulings it has put in force will enable many of the million Korea veterans who dropped out of GI training to get a new chance to resume their education this fall.

Those who may benefit had interrupted their training for more than 12 consecutive months.

Under the new ruling, a veteran may resume training if he can show that the interruption was due to reasons beyond his control, such as family or financial obligations, personal illness or family illness or death, or unavoidable conditions in connection with his employment.

The VA said it has ordered that "all reasonable doubt be resolved in the veteran's favor" when questions arise as to reasons for interruptions.

Imprisoned Forger Can't Read, Write

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Hamp Wehunt, who cannot read or write, is serving a 20-year prison term for forgery.

And the Pardon Board voted Wednesday to let him remain in prison on the 1954 Pasco County forgery conviction.

Officials said Wehunt forced his daughter to write the forged checks for him.

Truman Rips Ike Defense Policy, Clashes with McElroy on Spending

"over-all military strength in being."

Truman said that the Soviets had 175 modernized divisions compared to our 15 "equipped mostly with obsolescent World War II equipment."

Truman also cited what he said were budget figures to show reductions in armed forces personnel and equipment, and added that such statistics "bespeak an attitude—and it is not an attitude that I like."

"I know," he said, "that defense is expensive—that it is growing more expensive all the time—but I do not think a record of economy is the most important thing in the world just now."

He offered this slogan to his fellow legionnaires: "Put the safety of this country first," and said:

"In the struggle to keep our country strong and safe, we can afford to have more men in uniform; we can afford to have a margin of safety; the only thing we canont afford is to do nothing."

Despite his obvious references to the administration's policies, Truman did not mention either McElroy or President Eisenhower by name. He said partisan politics should be kept out of foreign policy and national defense.

The Soviet Union, he said, "apparently is preparing for war."

"The Soviet leaders," Truman went on, "don't give a damn about the difference between Republicans and Democrats. . . .

At that point he adlibbed "don't give a damn" for his original word "care."

"There are some men today in responsible positions who have a political stake in the national defense policies," he asserted. "I would like to urge them to lay aside personal political considerations and face the facts."

"Republicans and Democrats alike ought to get together and put aside our petty prides and prejudices in international affairs," Truman went on.

Earlier, George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, spoke. Organized labor's chief executive officer also deplored cuts in defense, but said this country should also excel the Soviets in "every walk of life." Weaknesses in our social order, he said, should be removed.

cause no Negroes attempted to register at any white school as they did at Phillips High School, scene of the disturbance, last September.

Police dispersed the crowd of 150 white men and teen-aged youths after about four hours of milling around. The demonstrators chased away several Negro pedestrians passing through the area.

The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, Negro integration leader who is pressing a school integration suit, said no attempt would be made to register Negroes in white schools while the case is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The federal government was reported recruiting deputy U.S. marshals in Arkansas for possible use at Central High School if it is reopened on an integrated basis. Reports of the recruiting came from Batesville, Jonesboro, Conway and Damascus.

The Jonesboro Sun interviewed one of the applicants and quoted him as saying, "There was no doubt what I was signing up for —it is for duty at Central High in case it reopens." The applicant said he was told if the school is closed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus the deputies probably would not be needed.

At Van Buren, on the Arkansas River near the Oklahoma border, six of the 13 Negro students at Van Buren High School announced plans to transfer to all - Negro schools after a second day of harassment. They were greeted on the first day of classes by signs which read "Go Home, Nigger," and Wednesday they reported threats, shoving and rock-throwing.

In Charlotte, N.C., two of four Negroes who attended white classes last year entered Wednesday without last year's minor demonstrations. One of the others who attended last year was reassigned to a Negro school when the white school was abandoned and the other quit after being harrassed by students.

It was just another school day in Kentucky on the second day of classes with four high schools integrating for the first time. Twenty Negroes were enrolled at white schools in Fulton. In Nelson, a total of 20 Negroes entered three high schools. Kentucky previously had placed about one-fourth of approximately 40,000 Negroes in mixed classes in 94 of the 215 school districts.

Rebel Leaders In Beirut Stop General Strike

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rebel leaders Wednesday night called off a nationwide general strike which has crippled Lebanon's economy since the middle of May.

The decision will allow shopkeepers to open their doors on Thursday morning.

The announcement, which reverses a rebel stand taken just two days ago, was made after a new rebel "summit conference" at the home of Beirut rebel leader Saeb Salem.

Stowaways Flee Reds

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Workers unloading baggage from a Hungarian Airlines plane Tuesday found a Hungarian boy, 16, in the compartment. When he learned he was in Brussels, he said he had a friend hidden somewhere in the plane. His friend, 21, was found in the passenger cabin under floorboards he had loosened.

ties "if not every one of them" in the Sept. 10 primary.

"The NAACP leaders and members are supporting Vandiver and Jim Gillis knows it," Williams said. "Slippery Jim would sell even his soul for his job back on the state Highway Board."

Bodenhamer, commenting on a published report about the NAACP stickers, denied that he or his campaign headquarters knew about them. But he said "Vandiver is entitled to the NAACP stickers on his posters since its leaders and members are supporting him."

He also said Vandiver stickers are appearing on Negro-driven autos in some sections. And he said cars with Bodenhamer stickers are being jeered in some colored sections of Atlanta.

Gillis coupled his blast about the NAACP stickers with sharp attacks on Bodenhamer and Williams.

He said that Vandiver had supported former Gov. Herman Talmadge's private school plan while Bodenhamer had fought it. As a member of the General Assembly, Bodenhamer voted against the private school plan of preserving segregation in 1953.

Gillis, a former highway board chairman under Talmadge, recalled that Vandiver had supported Talmadge in past gubernatorial campaigns when Bodenhamer supported M. E. Thompson.

Bodenhamer, Gillis charged, had "openly courted and has received" the Negro vote in Tift County in each of his races for the Legislature.

As for Williams, Gillis said the revenue commissioner is "the chief and sole financier of Mr. Bodenhamer." Gillis said Williams had raised money from "liquor and beer interests" and from state employes for Bodenhamer.

"This same Red Williams," Gillis said, "stands indicted for the crime of larceny after trust. There is only one issue here. That issue is Red Williams versus the people of Georgia."

Sunday School Is Meant For Parents and Children

QUESTION: My parents make me go to Sunday school, but they don't go themselves. To make it worse, the Sunday school teacher is never prepared and just reads out of the quarterly. Do you think my parents are right in making me go?

—J. L.

ANSWER: No, your parents are not right, and neither is the Sunday school teacher. Too long, parents have just sent children to Sunday school, when they should go with them. Too long Sunday school teachers have read from the quarterly.

I am sure you can see the problem clearer than your parents can. Why don't you begin to urge them to go with you. They must know it is a good thing to do. Then they will see how poorly some Sunday schools are run, and they may do something to correct it.

Above all, don't blame God or Christianity for what some people do. Think of Sunday school as it should be, and the Lord may even use you to bring about a change. Pray for His help and don't be discouraged.

3 Youths Held in School Burglaries

Three youths with a plan that went awry Wednesday were arrested for investigation of burglary, police said.

One, Donnie Ray Sizemore, 17, of 1808 Memorial Dr., SE, was held at city jail for suspicion of burglary, Detectives J. C. McIntire and I. M. Helton said.

The other two, brothers, aged 16 and 14, were lodged in the Fulton Juvenile Detention Home?

Detectives said the three were charged with burglaries at Murphy and Roosevelt High Schools as well as a private residence.

In the burglary at Murphy, discovered Monday, an attempt was made to burn open the school safe with acetylene torches. Detectives said the safe was damaged but not opened.

Both schools were thoroughly ransacked, detectives related. They said the youths pulled six chairs around a table at Murphy and spilled soft drinks and food there in order to make it appear that six persons had been there.

One youth cut his hand severely while breaking a window at Murphy, detectives said. They added he went to the school infirmary, cleaned the wound and bandaged it.

When arrested Wednesday he was still wearing the bandage, detectives said.

In the residence burglary, the youths took two pistols as part of the loot, detectives said. They added the two older youths carried the pistols in their pockets when apprehended.

The 14-year-old attended Roosevelt, detectives said. The other youths did not attend school.

(The names of accused persons under 17 years of age are withheld in accordance with the Georgia Juvenile Court law).

Fair Readies Farm Exhibit

A huge four-building exhibit designed to show the importance of Georgia's nine major sources of agricultural income is being readied for the 1958 Southeastern Fair, to be held in Atlanta's Lakewood Park, October 2-11.

Fourteen agriculture groups and associations are cooperating to present the exhibit, which will show how agriculture provides jobs for 55 per cent of the state's population.

The theme of this year's feature is "Agriculture in Georgia's Total Economy." It will use the huge three-dimension map of Georgia built last year for the fair. The exhibit will occupy the four exhibit buildings on the fair grounds.

Telfair Citizens' Group Buys Voters List

A group of Telfair County citizens who claimed they had been unable to examine the county's voters' registration list, Wednesday bought a list from the secretary of state's office.

Under a 1958 law, the boards of registrars are required to furnish the lists to the secretary of state. A list may be purchased at the rate of 5 cents a name.

R. L. Fussell, Telfair farmer, and Warner Bowen, retired Navy man, said they paid $376.40 for the list of 7,528 names.

Fussell and Bowen said they represented a large number of Telfair citizens who wanted the list to use in connection with the Sept. 10 primary. They estimated that the list includes only 5,000 names of "qualified voters."

It has been reported in recent years that the Telfair list was bloated with the names of dead persons, persons who had long since moved from the county, and multiple listings of some voters.

Nasser Denounces U.S. On Israel and Formosa

Says Taiwan Belongs to Red China, Accuses West of Arming 'Zionism'

By FOSTER HAILEY

(Copyright 1958 by The New York Times Co.)

CAIRO—Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser accused the United States and Britain Wednesday of still seeking the destruction of Arab nationalism by arming what he termed "Zionist" nationalism.

It was the strongest language he had used against the Western powers since the end of the Suez fighting two years ago.

"Israel is the last hope of the imperialists to destroy Arab nationalism," the President of the United Arab Republic charged in a speech. It was broadcast to all Egypt and rebroadcast by the Voice of the Arabs Radio to the rest of the Arab world.

The slashing attack came only 4½ hours after Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations had alighted at Cairo Airport on a mission seeking the peaceful resolution of Middle Eastern tensions.

In sarcastic reference to U.S. charges that his Arab supporters had committed "indirect aggression," Nasser asked:

"Pray, what do they call American intervention in the quarrel over Taiwan. We all know that Taiwan is an integral part of China.

"As we seem to know our geography better than the Americans, we have recognized China and its 600,000,000 people, whereas America persists in supporting Taiwan and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek."

The President made his new assault at the inauguration of the executive council of the United Arab States. The organization is a loose federation that was proclaimed six months ago with the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria and the feudal kingdom of Yemen as its only members.

This was the first time Nasser had spoken in public since the adoption Aug. 21 by the U.N. General Assembly of an Arab resolution offering a formula for a peaceful settlement of the Arab nationalist quarrel with the governments of Lebanon and Jordan.

U.S. Trims Strategic Stockpiling In Fourth Move To Pare Budget

By EDWIN L. DALE JR.

WASHINGTON — The Administration took its fourth step in as many weeks Wednesday to effect major reductions in the budget, present and future.

Wednesday's announcement concerned the national strategic stockpile. Reflecting earlier basic decisions reducing stockpile objectives, the announcement from the office of defense and civilian mobilization said only three materials would be procured this fiscal year, much the fewest since the stockpiling program began shortly after World War II.

The announcement will have only a negligible effect on estimated total spending in the current fiscal year, which is largely payment for materials contracted for earlier. But it signals a sharp reduction in stockpile spending starting in the next fiscal year, 1960.

AT 422 MILLION

Stockpile spending of all kinds, including acquisitions of materials under Korean War materials expansion contracts, is estimated at $422,000,000 in the current fiscal year. This amount will be sharply reduced next fiscal year.

Wednesday's action followed three other recent actions, all stemming directly from the White House.

1. Tuesday President Eisenhower vetoed a $437,000,000 bill expanding federal aid for airport construction over the next four years. He said he would ask the next Congress for a greatly reduced program. The present program expires next June 30.

HOUSING PROGRAM

2. Last week the President called a virtual halt to the special anti-recession housing program involving purchase of mortgages on low-cost homes by the Federal National Mortgage Assn. Some $200,000,000 remained unspent in the $1,000,000,000 provided by Congress for this program, and most of that money may now be saved.

3. Last month the President vetoed a big appropriations bill because it contained a $589,000,000 item for government contributions to the civil service retirement fund. Congress, in effect, sustained the veto by passing the bill again without this item.

The actions reflect the deep concern in the administration, starting with the President, at the sudden rise in this year's budget to a currently estimated $79,000,000,000 and the indications that spending is likely to be in the $80,000,000,000 range for the indefinite future.

BEST EFFORTS

At a recent press conference the President called this picture "horrible" and pledged his best efforts to try to keep spending down.

Wednesday Sen. Monroney (O-Dem.) sponsor of the expanded airport aid bill, assailed the President's veto as "a body blow to air safety." The senator said the President's action would "endanger a safe transition to the jet air age."

Wednesday's announcement on the stockpiles said purchases in the current fiscal year would be limited to amosite asbestos, small diamond dies and muscovite and film mica. Last year there were 10 items on the purchase list.

The basic change in policy is a decision to limit the stockpile to enough materials to meet the demands of three years of wartime mobilization instead of the former five. That decision automatically labeled "complete" the amount on hand of a number of major items.

Reds Flail U.S. View at Atom Talks

Libby Says A-Blasts Can Help Mankind

By JOHN W. FINNEY

GENEVA—The scientific calm of the International Atoms for Peace Conference was ruptured Wednesday by a U.S. suggestion that thermonuclear explosives could be used for peaceful purposes.

The suggestion was immediately attacked by Dr. V. S. Emelyanov, head of the Soviet scientific delegation, as a political device designed to conceal a desire in the United States to continue atomic tests.

PERSONAL ATTACK

At the same time, Emelyanov unleashed a personal attack on Dr. Willard F. Libby, a member of the U.S. scientific delegation, whom he accused of trying to find a way to continue atomic tests.

This political flareup, in sharp contrast to the air of cordial scientific coopertaion that prevailed in the opening days of the conference, came amidst a scientific discussion of the potential peaceful uses of atomic energy.

At the session, chaired by Emelyanov, U.S. scientists described the U.S. program, known as Project Plowshare, to use nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes, such as excavating harbors, freeing oilfields, or generating electricity.

NEWS CONFERENCE

The discussion immediately turned political when the scientists appeared at a news conference following the technical session to discuss their papers.

Asked by reporters whether the Soviet Union had any program for the peaceful uses of atomic explosives, Emelyano said the Soviet Union had no intention of using nuclear explosives for such a purpose. He then proceeded to deliver an attack on the practicality and motives of the U.S. project.

The proposal to use atomic explosives for peaceful purposes, he said, does "not reach practical ends but only political ones."

"VERY DIFFICULT"

He observed that certain persons in the United States are finding it "very difficult to justify" continued nuclear tests and nuclear armament in the face of world opinion for a ban on atomic tests. Therefore, he said, "new projects" for continued tests are appearing "under the cover" of peaceful and industrial uses.

Dr. Emelyanov noted that when testifying last spring before the Senate disarmament subcommittee, Libby, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, had suggested that mankind would lose potentially great benefits if a nuclear test ban prevented the use of atomic explosives for peaceful purposes.

Libby had proposed, therefore, Emelyanov observed, that any atomic test ban should carry an exemption permitting the continuated use of atomic explosives for peaceful purposes.

Emelyanov said Dr. Libby's proposed exemption "seems to be the basis of this work to find a way to continue these experiments."

2 Railroads To Increase Fares Nov. 1

(Copyright 1958. The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—In the face of a steady decline in passenger traffic, the nation's two largest railroads—the Pennsylvania and the New York Central—plan a move that will virtually be certain to drive more of their passengers to competing forms of transportation.

On Oct. 1 the two roads propose to publish new tariffs that will become effective Nov. 1. They will increase first-class passenger fares by 15 per cent and coach fares by 5 per cent. The increases are subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THIRD INCREASE

If the higher rates are approved, they will represent the third fare increase made by the two lines in less than two years. The Pennsylvania and the Central won an increase of 5 per cent in both first-class and coach fares in January, 1957, and 15 per cent more in May last year for first class fares. Another 5 per cent increase in coach fares was approved last January.

The Pennsylvania and the Central first broached their plan to seek higher rates last month at a meeting in New York of Eastern railroad passenger traffic managers. The plan has remained a closely guarded secret even though most of the 35 other Eastern carriers declined at that time to go along with the two lines.

5 PER CENT

Four railroads, the Erie, the Grand Trunk, the Lehigh Valley and the Reading, said at the meeting that they would like to increase their coach fares by 5 per cent. But they said they would do so only if all other lines in the East were willing to take such action.

It is not yet certain whether the four roads will follow the lead of the Central and the Pennsylvania and the Central, no railroad in the East indicated any interest at the meeting in an increase of sleeping car fares.

Boy Picks Dad, Sports Over Mom and Pets

CHICAGO (AP)—A 13-year-old boy Wednesday chose baseball, football and Dad over his lizard collection, two collie dogs and Mom.

In a peaceful setting in Superior Court, Bruce Colby told a judge he wanted to stay with his father in Chicago, although he dearly loved his mother.

"I've thought about this for three years," Bruce told Judge Richard B. Austin. "When I came out here after school was over in June, I wrote my mother a letter telling her I'd like to stay here for the school year and spend vacations on the ranch where she lives."

When Bruce's parents were divorced in 1951, the boy was given to his mother, now Mrs. Merrian Colby Clark, 35, of Woodland Hills, Calif., during the school year. His father, Edward P. Colby, 37, had him during the summer.

"I have so much in common with Dad," Bruce continued. "There's baseball, golf and football games. But I will miss my lizard collection and my two collie dogs."

The boy said he liked the Chicago weather over California's and added, "All things considered, I think I'll be happiest here."

Mrs. Clark did not oppose Colby's petition for a reversal of the original custody order.

"I thought ranch life would make up for the sporting events Bruce loved," she said, "but I guess I made a mistake."

She added she would abide by the judge's decision.

Judge Austin followed Bruce's wishes and reversed the decree.

Bruce kissed his weeping mother, told her again he loved her and then left the courtroom with his father.

Boy Routs Kidnaper As Police Close In

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI)—A 14-year-old boy who was kidnaped while waiting for his bus on the first day of school wrested a gun from his abductor Wednesday as police closed in.

Police caught the kidnaper, James Leroy Smith, 20, a Negro, Washington, D.C., after he was disarmed by plucky Anthony Marchand, who was to have entered the freshman class at high school Wednesday morning.

Smith had forced a cab driver at gun point to drive him from Washington to Connecticut. At the Greenwich toll station on the Merritt Parkway the cab driver, Charles T. Smith, 40, Washington, jumped from the cab and ran for help.

At that time, Tony, and his sisters Mary Ann, 16, Bonnie, 7, and Betty, 8, were waiting for the school bus on a corner near the toll station.

James Smith, rifle in hand, ran over to them.

Smith fired a shot into the air, and Tony said, "Don't do anything to us, we'll be cooperative, we'll do whatever you say."

"Bonnie became hysterical and ran away screaming," the boy later told his mother. "The other girls ran after her."

Smith marched the boy back to the cab, forced him inside and drove away.

More than 30 police cruisers joined in the pursuit.

Within a short distance the hood of the cab became disengaged and it popped up, shutting off the driver's vision. The car careened down an embankment and came to an upright stop.

Smith raised the rifle and pointed it at pursuing police.

Tony would not talk about what happened then, but his mother, Mrs. Nathan Marchand, described the boy's heroism to reporters.

"Tony didn't just brush it aside, he pulled the gun out of his hands," Mrs. Marchand said. "He was scared to death."

Smith raced into a wooded area but was quickly captured without resistance.

3 States' Foresters Studying Fires Here

Nearly 40 foresters from Georgia, Alabama, and Florida are meeting in Atlanta this week to study forest fire behavior.

Instructing the fire fighters are physicists and meteorologists who will discuss fuel and weather conditions which cause disastrous forest fires, such as the Buckhead fire which burned over 110,000 acres of north Florida and south Georgia in 1956.

As I See It

Liberace Is Back And Ready for Show

By PAUL JONES
Constitution Television and Radio Editor

HOLLYWOOD—If you have been wondering what has happened to Liberace, I can tell you. He has been on an international tour but he's back in this country, ready to start his new series for ABC-TV October 13.

Jones

I had midnight coffee with him after his show in the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador and he told me about how he plans to conduct his new program, why he thinks his last series didn't last even though it is one of the most financially successful filmed series ever made, and he talked about his mother, his clothes and the Liberace jokes, which he says he doesn't mind at all.

After catching the show in the Cocoanut Grove, one of the really big night clubs in this country, I went to his fashionable suite on the second floor of the hotel, along with a TV columnist from San Francisco, to wait for Liberace to show up for the interview.

It wasn't long before he walked into the parlor of the suite, dressed in black corduroy slacks, a black sports shirt with white polka dots, black and white loafers and a white sweater jacket with an orchid lei around his neck. The lei was draped around his neck, he said, by the employes of the Cocoanut Grove in a farewell demonstration which marked his closing after a month in the Grove.

I was anxious to get into the interview and I asked Lee — as he is known to folks in show business—just what he was going to do with his new TV series.

He said he wanted to show there was more to Liberace than a wink, a candelabra and a head full of curly hair.

"I'm going to deal with the human element. I'm going to get warm and perspire," he said. "I'm going to do what I done on the concert tours.

"In my heart, I think it will outdo the other series, which, to date, has grossed some $6,000,000, making this the biggest money making series in TV. My power lies in spontaneity and I plan to have fun with the show."

I started to mention that the I Love Lucy series had probably made more money than the Liberace films, but I passed that up and asked him about the comedians who have made Liberace impressions the big event in their acts.

"I don't mind the comedy at all," Lee said, "except the blue stuff, that I don't like at all. I think a good impression is a form of flattery.

He said he liked being controversial, though, because "before the controversy, I was an unknown success, if you know what I mean."

I was under the impression that Liberace had been a strong favorite with the women—and I thought he had only a few male admirers. But, he said this was not true at all. He said surveys, conducted by sponsors throughout the country had proved that men watched his show, too.

Liberace

"In St. Louis, for instance, a banking sponsor found that $50,000,000 in new savings were deposited as a result of the Liberace TV film series—and, most of this was deposited by male depositors," he said triumphantly.

IF MEN ARE GOING TO WATCH his new TV show, which will be a new daytime insert on ABC-TV and Channel 11 in Atlanta, I wondered if he is going to wear the sequin dinner jacket and the gold-cloth trousers, the silver shoes and the tux which has his name engraved on the buttons.

"No, I'm going to dress conservatively," he said.

"What does that mean? Are you simply going to wear a sports coat with a fur lapel, or a pair of silk slacks with cocoon decals on the legs?"

"I'm simply going to wear normal street attire. And I'm going to play the songs that I wasn't able to play on my filmed TV series.

"You know I had bank sponsors who wouldn't let me play Money Is the Root of All Evil' and I had mortuary sponsors who would not let me play 'Danse Macabre.' But now I'm going to pull out all stops."

BY THIS TIME we had gone into why he had dropped George off his payroll (George just wants his own career); who is going to sponsor his show (an aluminum firm, a meat packer and a food concern); whether he is going to do the commercials (yes, he's regarded as one of the 'best salesmen in TV next to Godfrey'); and if he would sing "Purple People Eater" on TV (he will, but it will be a symphonic version.)

And I closed the interview by asking whether he is going to mention his mother in this TV series.

"No," he said. "Mother is exhausted. She has had five years of it (meaning mentions on his TV shows and personal appearances) and she has just returned from Italy where she had an audience with the Pope, the holy father. She just wants to live comfortably and quietly. She's 66 and she wants to be left alone."

I was in the same frame of mind, since it was 2 a.m. I folded my note pad and returned to the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel to write this piece.

The handsome pair, who won raves for their summer Sunday night show, will be among Steve's guests when the regular Steve Allen show resumes Sunday at 8 p.m. on WSB-TV's Channel 2.

Quiz Winner Got $18,500 in Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Herbert Stempel, who says he got the answers in advance on the NBC television quiz show "21," got $18,500 of his winnings in advance, one of the show's producers said Wednesday.

Dan Enright denied Stempel's contention that the cash advance indicated Enright knew Stempel was sure to win. Enright, coproducer with Jack Barry of "21," said Stempel threatened to quit unless he got the money, even though at that stage in the game all his winnings could have been swept away by wrong answers.

"He told me if he didn't get the money he would have to quit the show immediately," Enright said of the advance payment. "I gave it to him without questioning him because at that point the show needed him.

"He was the first contestant who had remained on for a number of weeks in a row. He was establishing an identity for the show and we couldn't afford to lose him."

Stempel and Barry and Enright have been involved in a welter of charges and countercharges. Stempel charged the show was rigged and that he was ordered to lose to Van Doren.

Barry and Enright denied it, said Stempel tried to blackmail them and produced a secret tape recording of a conversation with Stempel. Stempel admitted he had withdrawn similar charges a year ago and signed a statement they were false, but said this was part of a bargain under which he was to get a television job. The job never came through, and he renewed the charges.

REDUCING THE HAZARD—DeKalb County has taken steps to reduce the dangers of an uncovered culvert at the intersection of McLynn and Hancock avenues, NE. The corner is a bus stop for children attending Briar Vista School, and many parents have feared for their children might fall into the exposed hole. New pipes will be connected to existing ones to complete the enclosure.

Grady Enrolls 101 Frosh Nurses, Largest Class in 61-Year History

The 101 new students who enrolled this week in the Grady Hospital School of Nursing comprise the largest freshman class in the school's 61-year-old history, Grady officials said Wednesday.

"The previous high was set last Sept. when 79 girls registered for the 1957 first-year class," said Miss Margaret Stovall, Grady Hospital public relations director.

The 22-student enrollment increase can be attributed to a large extent to "the opening of the new hospital building with all its modern facilities," Miss Stovall said.

"Of course, the nursing school has stepped up its recruitment program, too," she added. "The need for trained personnel has been multiplied because 'new Grady,' whenever all of its facilities are put into full operation, will require a larger staff than the old hospital did."

"Orientation Week" will continue Thursday and Friday for the 1958 freshmen who hail from nine different states and Canada. Regular classes are scheduled to get under way Monday morning.

Well over half of the new freshmen are native Georgians. "We've got 63 Georgia girls who registered this week," Miss Stovall said, "but we also enrolled girls from Colorado, Ohio, Michigan, Florida, Alabama, North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina and Canada."

She said nursing school officials were delighted by the fact that some of the first-year students "are the daughters and sisters of former Grady graduates."

Student housing facilities at Grady have been expanded to accommodate the nursing school's total enrollment of 250 for the upcoming year, Miss Stovall said.

The transformation of parts of old Grady Hospital into two new dormitories — Georgia Hall and Florida Hall—was completed in time for 96 of the incoming freshmen to move in, she said.

Forty-three are housed in Florida Hall, a red brick structure on the corner of Pratt street and Coca-Cola place, SE, that formerly served as the hospital's contagious ward. "It was air conditioned and redecorated for the students," Miss Stovall said.

A section of old Grady's main hospital building also was "completely renovated and redecorated," Miss Stovall added. Renamed Georgia Hall, it accommodates 53 new nursing students.

The remaining five freshmen have been lodged, along with the second-and-third-year students, in Feebeck Hall and Hirsch Hall, she said.

Orientation activities for the bright-eyed freshmen Wednesday saw them introduced to the nursing school faculty, measured for their student nurses' uniforms, guided to the hospital health clinic for physical checkups and escorted on a tour of the 21-story new Grady Hospital.

Movie Review

How 'Murder' Can Be Fun

Murder can be humorous, as fans of Alfred Hitchcock and cartoonist Charles Addams will testify.

An offbeat little film which opened at the Peachtree Art Wednesday will appeal to such fans—and probably leave other moviegoers cold. It's called "How to Murder a Rich Uncle," and the laughs come along with the corpses.

Georgia-born Charles Coburn stars with an English cast including Wendy Hiller, Nigel Patrick and that delightfully fey little old lady, Katie Johnson. Characters and plot are equally zany, but if you like your comedy mixed with cadavers, get set for some ghoulish glee.—MARJORY RUTHERFORD.

Mayor Hits Ike's Veto of Airport Bill

Mayor Hartsfield Wednesday said President Eisenhower had dealt a "body blow to American cities" in vetoing a $400 million aviation aid bill.

The mayor, who is chairman of the aviation committee of the American Municipal Association, said the action will not affect present plans for expansion of the Atlanta airport, but added it "will hamper our future plans to improve runways and approaches." He said the veto means "an end to federal aid for airports."

Braswell Trial Delayed As Jury List Runs Out

Contributors to Prosecution Fund Disqualified in Wheeler County Case

By JACK NELSON
Constitution Staff Writer

ALAMO—Trial of the Wheeler County commissioner on charges of "illegal use of prisoners" and an audit of the county school superintendent's office face uncertain delay because of unusual legal entanglements.

Commissioner Oris Braswell's trial was postponed because the jury box was exhausted before a jury could be empaneled. This resulted from Superior Court Judge John K. Whaley's ruling disqualifying as jurors all contributors (and their relatives) to a prosecution fund.

An audit of Superintendent T. C. Fulford's office, ordered by a Wheeler County grand jury, has been postponed because the jury has been unable to engage auditors who will undertake the task under conditions imposed by Judge Whaley. A Macon firm that was auditing the office walked out after Judge Whaley's ruling.

Alamo Mayor John McRae Clements, foreman of the current Wheeler County grand jury, said that the trial of Braswell probably cannot be held until some time next year or later. He explained that the Wheeler County Jury Commission, of which he is a member, is not scheduled to revise the jury list until next year. Meanwhile, he said, that there would be no chance of empaneling a jury to try Braswell.

CONVICT LABOR

Braswell, who is running for Wheeler County :epresentative to the General Assembly in the Sept. 10 primary, was indicted earlier this year on charges that he used county convict labor to build private ponds. Two indictments charged "illegal use of prisoners" and a third charged "malpractice in office."

Two successive grand juries also recommended that Braswell be ousted under the law establishing the one-commissioner form of government in Wheeler. The law provides that the office shall be declared vacant upon two successive grand jury recommendations.

However, Judge Whaley declined to declare the office vacant on the grounds that the law is unconstitutional because it would deprive Braswell of his rights to "due process of the law."

When one of Braswell's cases was called for trial in Wheeler Superior Court in June, Carl Nelson of Dublin, defense attorney, called on the prosecution to furnish the names of citizens who donated to a prosecution fund.

65 PERSONS

Mayor Clements said there were 65 persons who donated to the fund. "When Judge Whaley disqualified all of them and all of their kin to the sixth degree, there were not enough names left in the jury box to empanel a jury," Clements said.

He said that Judge Whaley stated in court at the time the case was called that he (the judge) would revise the jury list at a later term of court so that a jury could be empaneled.

"But the jury commission has to revise the box," Mayor Clements said, "and it isn't done but once every two years. Since it's not scheduled to be revised again until next year, it will be some time before the trial can be held."

At a hearing before the State Department of Corrections earlier this year, Braswell admitted that he had used convicts from the county works camp to dig some private fish ponds. He defended the action as an old custom in the county.

CLOSED CAMP

The Corrections Department closed down the camp and transferred its prisoners to other camps.

The auditing troubles involving Supt. Fulford's office began this summer immediately after the grand jury ordered the audit.

Auditors from a Macon firm, hired to make the audit, complained that they were being harassed by Fulford.

Clements accused Fulford of using "delaying tactics" and charged that the school superintendent "has continually harassed the auditors."

Fulford countered that the auditors were marking up his records.

The controversy became so bitter that Judge Whaley, in an order requiring Fulford to submit records for the audit, stipulated that "there shall be no argument, bickering or controversy engaged in between" the superintendent and members of a grand jury committee investigating Fulford's office.

The auditors declared they could not complete their job under another provision of the order which barred them from making marks on records "except a black pencil check mark (which shall be erasible) on the right or left margin" of the records "indicating that the various items have been checked by them."

Clements said he hopes to engage another auditing firm for the job before his jury is discharged in October.

Clements said the grand jury had "sufficient evidence to justify" an audit of Fulford's office.

He said the jury was particularly interested in some buying practices of the office.

BLACK LACE CAN, TOO, BE VERY YOUNG
Fay Talerico Shows Harvey Berin's Interpretation

Fashion Director Casts Women in Many Roles

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER
Constitution Fashion Editor

All the world's a stage and each woman in her time plays many parts.

Not exactly Shakespeare but a paraphrasing to herald fashion and its importance to every woman in her effort to be what she wants to be.

It was Fashionata by Rich's. And some 94 outfits appeared "on stage" at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel as Mr. Sol Kent, of Rich's, intimated with his mammouth production and erudite commentary that there is no one way to look this fall '58.

Explaining his theory on fashion for the new season, before the show, Mr. Kent said to expect no Brigitte Bardot sheaths and no chemises that could be termed "sacks" but a natural evolution from the free line.

MORE FEMININE

In approving the new silhouettes he said they are more feminine and revealing and far from concealing. What is hinted at is more appealing than what is overstated as what is not seen is more appealing than what is seen.

And thus the show proceeded to present a three-act version of how they see you in the new for fall.

The first act presented the ingenue—not as you have known it, kittenish and coy, but like Gigi, young and not naive at all.

This was a little girl look, full with a new straightness and a waistline mentioned but not squeezed. It was belted at the rise of the Empire or lowered to the thighs. It was the dauphine look of Trigere with a new fullness in the back or a world of pleats by Monte Sano-Pruzan. Or still it was the trapeze, shaped to perfection, as only Traina-Norell can. Then when little girls borrowed from little boys, it was the Ben Reig suit of a short jacket.

BEWITCHING LACE

And to prove that black can be young was the bewitching lace from Harvey Berin shadowing a bodice of taffeta and bursting like a full blown flower from the hips with a swell of more lace.

Act two was wickedly titled "the other woman" not to encourage you to imitate her ways but to acknowledge that you do play many parts for an audience of one.

And this role, too, calls for a changed look—more subtle, less obvious. The look is shaped not plastered to you and typical of it is the Traina-Norell wool crepe that is a dress yoked with slithers of ribbons that jiggle like prisms from a chandelier with every step.

Or it may be Pauline Trigere's poult de soie as simple as a period and as electrifying as an exclamation point in a straight line anchored with two brilliant pins to square off the bodice.

Yet it could be a Madam X as a slender column of chiffon or the triangle, itself, as Ceil Chapman's chiffon topped with spangles.

DEFINES CHEMISE

Anyway you see her, Rich's sees her in black for the incalculable effect of black can never be underestimated. And it will be no rigid case of a sheath but a figure defining chemise.

You as the star of your own performance are seen in a steamer coat of grey by Pauline Trigere—double-breasted to the hem with ascot and fringe.

Then, there was the star from B. H. Wragge—a grey wool dress packing the wallop of an uppercut with its top of beige corduroy. And an old favorite in a new way starred as the polo coat appeared in beige with a very low belt and fullish skirt.

And not forgetting your private life, there were approaches to prove that it can be everything from a fireside bout with your favorite book to an intimate dinner for four. There was a new version of the favorite Rex Harrison sweater—a new interpretation of the shirtwaist in printed chiffon, and an exciting Saturday night dress by Wragge of Italian voile. And in the spirit of plushness was the Bonnie Cashin souffle skirt in bold plaid topped by black. And for the special at home, a gold skirt went to floor length in satin and was mated to a white blouse.

ANOTHER SHOW

The subsequent act portrayed the opening of another show with white—and why not white for winter's night. It was white in a Wragge coat, white in an Empire wool dress, or a white Chesterfield of processed broadtail.

Then it played to black and white in a costume of not moire at all but black Russian broadtail topped with a warmer of white ermine.

And the finale showed how to light up the night with hot, undistilled red in one shade or in off-beat blendings. Most startling, perhaps, was Wragge's electrifying coral dress and coat ensemble that seemed to strike a blaze like the burning bush.

Let's Go Marketing

Apples Are Plentiful, All Shapes, Varieties

By VIRGINIA DYSARD
Atlanta Constitution Food Editor

The first month of fall brings with it the traditional fruits, and already these fruits are beginning to show up in good supply. Apples will be coming from local orchards and fields. Apples, in all colors, sizes and shapes are expected in plenty this fall, reports Mrs. Betty Alexander, extension consumer information specialist.

The best crop of apples since 1950 is forecast, 6 per cent above last year for the entire country, and 30 per cent greater for Georgia. The earlier varieties are expected to reach their peak by Sept. 15.

Pears from local fields and orchards are plentiful and pleasing in price. Now is a good time to make those preserves. Tokay grapes are making their appearance on the Atlanta market.

MORE POTATOES

The late summer production of potatoes will be larger in supply than in previous years, so they are expected to be a budget food. Celery, head lettuce, dry onions and sweet corn are vegetables wearing attractive price tags in markets this week. There are good supplies of summer squash and eggplant too. Quality of the green family is better this week.

As more hogs come to market, pork prices will continue to move downward. Lamb and veal prices remain at last week's levels. Beef prices show little change from last week. Chuck roasts offer excellent beef eating at a budget-pleasing cost. Many fresh and frozen fish products are available for menu change and to stretch that food dollar.

Fryers and broilers continue in good supply, wearing attractive price tags. September supplies will be about one fifth greater than last year. Both hens and turkeys are available in plentiful supply at low prices. Small-sized eggs are recommended now.

ALL KINDS OF PEARS

Pears in some form are available in retail stores the year 'round. Fresh pears are most plentiful from August to February. Canned and dried pears know no season. In selecting fresh pears look for firm but not hard ones. They should be clean and free of blemishes, and well shaped for the variety.

Wilted or shriveled pears will lack flavor. Pears with a water-soaked appearance will taste mushy and be wasteful. Color is NOT a reliable guide to pear quality. Some varieties will be green in color when ripe, while others may be yellow when not fully ripe.

Pears are best if picked before fully ripe, and then ripened artificially. The ideal ripening temperature is 65 degrees to 68 degrees. If room temperature is over 70 degrees, place pears in the warmest part of the refrigerator. Extreme heat causes rapid deterioration. Ripening may be retarded, but not stopped by refrigeration.

Bake pears peeled or unpeeled, whole or halved. They bake best at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour, but may be baked over a wide range of temperatures to accommodate oven meals. Chilled in the refrigerator, baked pears keep well for several days.

Broil pears that are ripe but still firm. Peel or not as desired. Halve or quarter them. Heat through thoroughly under broiler, but do not attempt to cook until soft. Serve with broiled steaks and chops as a delicious accompaniment.

Glaze pears, like apples, in oven or top-of-stove skillet.

Fry sliced pears separately in meat drippings, or in pan with steaks and chops . . . delicious!

When additional sweetening is desired, use molasses, honey, brown sugar, maple - flavored syrup or dark corn syrup to complement pear flavor. Spice pear desserts with ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg or cloves.

Shearouse, Thomason Vows Said

Wearing a Chantilly lace gown, loaned to her by her close friend, Mrs. Jim Jones of Miami, Miss Lucretia Rose Shearouse became the bride of Robert Troy Thomason of Dalton at a late afternoon ceremony solemnized in the McCord Chapel of the Druid Hills Methodist Church.

The Rev. Arthur L. Gilmore of Cedartown and the Rev. Charles E. Frazier of Athens officiated at the service which was followed by a reception in the church parlors, with the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Shearouse as hosts.

Mr. Shearouse gave his daughter in marriage. With her lace gown she wore a veil of illusion beonging to Mrs. Ed Nease of Savannah, which was attached to a seed pearl tiara. Her flowers were a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. James M. Cook Jr. of Wrightsville was her sister's matron of honor, and another sister, Mrs. Graham P. Lowe Jr. of Albany, served as bridesmaid.

Fred N. Henderson of Albany was best man for Mr. Thomason, and his usher-groomsmen were W. Moses Bond, Merritt S. Bond and W. Lester Strain, all of Dalton.

Miss Helen Thomason, the bridegroom's sister, kept the bride's book, and Mrs. A. M. Wallace, Mrs. W. H. Fargason, Mrs. Dan Hopkins, Mary Titus, Mary Fetzer, Diane Thomas and Donna Adams assisted in entertaining at the reception.

Garden Club Plans Meeting

Bird and Flower Garden Club will meet on Thursday, Sept. 11, with Mrs. Horace Daniel and Mrs. Frank L. Picotti at the home of the former at 424 Collier Rd., NW. Mrs. Oliver Coleman will speak on African violets.

"DEACON'S" FROCK COAT A LITTLE WORN WITH SUCCESS

Andy Griffith, a Recent Visitor, Delights Atlanta Fans

Tarheel Comedian Andy Griffith Takes Up Baby-Sitting Part-time

By BETTY CARROLLTON

One of the Southland's favorite sons has added another laurel to his long list of accomplishments:

"I'm the world's best baby-sitter," modestly admitted actor Andy Griffith during his recent visit to Atlanta. "Of course," he continued with a frown, "it was sorta forced on me.

"But I took to it right off," he added, brightening.

Shortly after they adopted Andy Samuel Griffith Jr., now 10 months old, the actor's pretty wife, Barbara, became ill and the responsibility of young Sam's care fell to Andy.

"There's just one way to go about those things," revealed America's newest child-care expert. "That's just to pitch in and do what needs to be done."

Always a "stay-at-home kind of guy," Sam's arrival at the Griffiths Chapel Hill, N.C., residence makes Andy even more reluctant to hit the road.

HARD TO LEAVE

"It was mighty hard to leave that first time," Andy recalled. "When I went out of the house with my suitcase, I told the baby to take a good look, 'cause that's a picture he'll be seeing all his life."

"Deacon" Andy has gone a long way since he first convulsed audiences with his zany description of a "cow pasture" sport that became a hit record under the title, "What It Wuz, Wuz Football," several years ago. He's come into his own as an actor with successes in the Broadway and film version of Georgian Mac Hyman's "No Time for Sergeants," in the movie, "A Face in the Crowd," and he'll soon win the plaudits of the public for his fine performance in the new Warner Bros. film, "Onionhead."

But Andy, who insisted he's "bigger, but broker," has remained the amicable, unassuming fellow who became a favorite of Atlantans with his numerous appearances here. And his marriage to pretty, brown-haired Barbara has suffered no ill effects with Andy's rise to stardom.

BOTH TARHEELS

Both are natives of North Carolina and Barbara, after attending high school in Troy and Converse College in Spartanburg, enrolled at Chapel Hill, where she studied for a year, majoring in music and drama.

It was there she met Andy in 1948.

Andy taught music in high schools for three years after their marriage in 1949, before his wife talked him into opening a talent agency in Chapel Hill. At the time, their talent consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith (Barbara is a talented singer, dancer and actress although she gave up her hopes of a career in favor of all-time star billing as Andy's wife) doing a variety act. Andy played the guitar and sang folk songs, while Barbara wowed audiences with her "pop" tune renditions and dance routines. They performed for civic clubs and other organizations in the Chapel Hill area. The act caught on and bookings started pouring in.

In addition to being half the performing talent, Barbara was the firm's bookkeeper, and still discharged her duties as a homemaker.

Then came "What It Wuz," and Barbara, always her husband's biggest booster, deserted the spotlight so they could concentrate on Andy's career.

Although the arrival of the baby will curtail some of Barbara's traveling, she'll still accompany Andy whenever possible. Barbara and Sam will return to New York with Andy when he begins rehearsal for a new Broadway show, "Destry Rides Again," in December.

He's 'Old' Enough To Baby Sit

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:

I feel I really need your help. To begin with, I am 14 years old and a freshman in high school. I'm only a C student, so I guess I'm not very bright. My family is made up of my parents and five brothers and sisters who are all younger than I am.

My parents and I do not get along. When my twin brothers were younger (they are now nine) I always baby-sat with them, but I longed for the day when I wouldn't have to do it anymore.

Well, just three years ago my baby brother was born and a year later my sister was born. This meant no more summer time fun for me or going anywhere for my own pleasure.

Yet, I am still considered a child by my parents except when they want to go out and leave me in charge of the family for several hours or even for a whole day. I'm not griping about that, though, it's just that Mother will not give me any credit for anything and if something goes wrong she goes straight to Dad and blames me.

It's gotten so bad that Daddy has even backed me into a corner and slapped me without giving me a chance to explain my side. He tells me, "Come to me with your problems," but when I do, he hollers at me and says whatever is wrong is my own fault.

Sometimes he doesn't even speak to me for as long as three days. Mrs. Ricker, if I am wrong, please tell me the right things to do. If I am even partly right, tell me how to improve the relationship between my parents and I.

Your letter did not contain many specific details but it does show that you have a strong desire to get along with your parents—which is definitely a point in your favor.

While it is obvious that you (like everyone else) are not perfect, it appears that your parents are not as fair or considerate as they should be. If they believe you are capable, and expect you to take on part of the responsibility of caring for five younger children, they should give you credit and show appreciation for your help.

When you go to your father with a problem, whether you are right or wrong, he should discuss it with you intelligently. If you are wrong, he should try to show you where you are wrong. If you are right, he should be man enough to admit it. In either case, only a very stupid parent would stop speaking to you for several days. Of course, you should do your part to be a cooperative member of the family, too.

'My Three Angels' To Open At Newnan's Patchwork Barn

"My Three Angels," a rollicking comedy that amused New York and Paris theater-goers for two years, will open for a three-day engagement at The Patchwork Barn, Dunaway Gardens, near Newnan this evening.

The Newnan Playmakers are presenting the play, written by Sam and Bella Spewack around three jolly crooks who steal with innocent relish, embezzle with infinite grace, and murder with methodical gentility.

Taking the roles of the three engaging rogues are some of Newnan's best known actors, Jack Humphrey, Herb Bridges and John Taylor.

They are all prisoners in a French Guiana penal colony and have been loaned to do some repair work for an indigent family. The whole purpose of the fastidious murders in which they engage is to see that the down-hearted family enjoys a glorious Christmas.

The action of the drama, originally a French version by Albert Husson, takes place in 1910. The setting is the living room back of the general store run by bumbling, trusting M. Ducotel, played by M. H. Elder. Anne Heard and Julia Keheley play his wife and daughter, respectively, and Debbie Ong is a charge account customer who has taken advantage of M. Ducotel's timidity in pressing for payment of her bill. Henri Trochard, the Scrooge of the piece, is played by Tom Chadwick, and the role of his caddish nephew has been assigned to David Brown. Bob Wilder as a French Navy lieutenant, lands in the nick of time to keep the situation well in hand.

Others in the cast of the highly successful comedy, which is directed by Tom Chadwick of Atlanta, include a snake named Adolphe, and a chicken destined to be served up as Christmas dinner.

Opening at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, the production will attract drama-lovers from Newnan and the surrounding territory. Proceeds will go to a Newnan charity.

MRS. R. H. MATHIS
Before her marriage to Mr. Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mathis of Ellijay, Mrs. Mathis was Frances Louise Mullinax of Atlanta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Mullinax of Barberton, Ohio. The wedding took place at the Virginia Avenue Baptist Church. The couple will live in Atlanta. The bride is employed by Southeastern Pipe Line Co. Mr. Mathis is employed by Rexall Drug Co., East Point.

ESA Group To Sponsor Benefit Show

"Scene at the Brussels Fair" will be the theme of a special fashion show, sponsored by the Alpha Tau Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha International sorority for business girls and young matrons, on Sunday, Sept. 21. All proceeds from the show, which will be staged at 3:00 p.m. at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel, will go to the Jolley Homes in Conyers.

Miss Alice Bell will give the commentary as the latest fall fashions are modeled, and Mrs. B. B. Perry will be the vocal soloist.

Mrs. Lily Longley, chapter president, and Mrs. Harry Dey are in charge of the program.

"Members of Alpha Tau have donated many volunteer hours of work, as well as many needed supplies, to the Jolley Homes during the past three years," Mrs. Longley said. "In addition to furnishing bedspreads and linens, the chapter has provided lumber and paint to enclose a furnace in the basement for a playroom, and have financed a fenced-in playground for the younger children."

Miss Eidson Is Wed To Mr. Roberts

At a Sunday afternoon ceremony solemnized by Dr. Waights G. Henry Jr., Miss Myrna Lee Eidson, daughter of the John F. Eidsons, was married to Larry Benjamin Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Roberts of Columbus.

After the nuptial service, Mr. and Mrs. Eidson were hosts at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Mr. Eidson gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a portrait gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin which belongs to her cousin, Mrs. Gene Bevil. Her illusion veil fell from a cap of lace and seed pearls, and she carried a white Bible covered in heirloom lace and topped with white orchids.

The bride's sister, Mildred, was her maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Kay Peacock of Atlanta, Ellen Adams of College Park, Judy Greer of Cusseta, and Mrs. Dan Sims of Daytona Beach.

The bridegroom's small cousin, Jeannine Galloway of Columbus, was flower girl.

Mr. Roberts was attended by John Horton of LaGrange as best man. In the dual role of usher-groomsmen were Wayne Newton of Zebulon, Jimmy Pennell and Bobby Smith of Columbus, and Malone Dodson of Atlanta.

Miss Ella Victoria White, daughter of Mrs. J. B. White of Dalton, is engaged to Robert Pierce Burnette, son of Mrs. A. S. Burnette of Atlanta. Their wedding will take place Oct. 19 at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist chapel. Miss White is employed by Tharpe and Brooks, Inc., and her fiance by Ideal Pictures Company.

Women are wonderful. They keep house, tend babies, chauffeur children, sew seams, run offices, inspire husbands and — they're not so dumb when it comes to money, either. In fact, the majority of First National savings accounts are opened by women. Born bargain-hunters, they like that guaranteed 3% interest. And they like the convenience of 11 neighborhood offices, not to mention the safe, secure, proud feeling that saving at First National gives.

Our hat's off to women who see the future in saving. They are the smart ones. And they'd be the first to tell you . . . every woman — every blessed one — should have a savings account of her own!

BRADFORD HEIGHTS,

"Imagine owning a 3-bedroom brick home for only $75 a month!" says Mr. Powell.

"We thought we'd have to rent a while longer because we refused to settle for a home we couldn't be proud of . . . or to buy in a neighborhood that wouldn't give our children all the advantages. But this house costs no more than renting a 3-bedroom place."

All brick KINGSBERRY home has 3 bedrooms in quiet, separate wing, sunny kitchen, dining area and sheltered carport.

Good Circulation To Heart Is Wealth

A man's wealth is measured in many ways but he is truly well heeled if he has an abundant coronary circulation to his heart. This is his best protection against sudden death.

The coronary vessels supply the wall of the heart with blood. These arteries are not large but they have so many branches that almost every muscle fiber has its own blood supply. The more, the merrier, because these vessels tend to narrow as the years pass. If one branch of the coronary becomes obstructed, blood can reach the stricken area through another branch.

In addition, new vessels (collateral circulation) form and bypass obstruction like a detour in a road. When healing of the plugged coronary is complete, the old ticker is better than it was the day before the heart attack occurred.

Collateral circulation is more precious than money and is a real index of a man's wealth. These new passageways are encouraged to develop when the muscles of the old pump are put under stress. This occurs normally in individuals who are active physically especially at an age when the coronary arteries are beginning to harden.

The man of 45 who manages to get some physical activity during the day and on weekends encourages the formation of collateral passageways. He is in a better position to weather the storm of a heart attack than his friend who rides to work; sits at a desk all day, and returns home, eats dinner and reads a book before retiring.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 club	Pass	1 heart
Pass	2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Diamond 6.

Declarer found himself completely helpless against the very cooperative defense displayed by East and West today.

Although the bidding was rather aggressive, the final contract was not unreasonable. After North's single raise another attempt by South was indicated. Had it taken the form of a three club bid, however, North would have tried three no trump, against which no defense would have been successful.

West opened his fourth best diamond. When dummy played low, East, employing the rule of 11, played the 10 which held the trick. Subtracting the size of the card led from 11 leaves five, the number of cards held by North, East and South combined that could beat the 6. Since all five were in plain view, the 10 must hold the trick.

East cashed the diamond king and got out with the spade jack. Dummy won with the ace and the king of hearts was played. East took the ace and returned another spade. South now had eight tricks in sight, and the only hope for the ninth was to establish a long club.

However, he could not afford to let West in to cash the third diamond as the defenders would then have three diamonds, a heart and a club. He tried to prevent this by leading toward the ace in dummy, intending to pass a trick into East.

West, however, carefully put in the 10, which forced the ace. East now entered the scene. He reasoned that if West had the jack, 10 and a small club, it would be mandatory to get out of his way. On the ace of clubs, East, therefore, played the queen. Declarer returned to the club king and played a third round, but West got in to cash the setting trick.

Note that if East had thoughtlessly played the 3 on the first club lead, declarer would continue the suit and permit East to hold the queen, thus establishing the long club for the ninth trick.

British Will Launch Rocket in Australia

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—The first British Black Knight rocket was scheduled to be launched at the Woomera range Thursday night to an altitude of 300 to 400 miles.

The weather must be suitable. Scientists said they needed a clear sky and absence of strong winds. The Black Knight will form the main stage for the attempt to launch Britain's first Earth satellite from Woomera before the end of the year.

"Social workers become skilled, through experience, in detecting the chronic cases of laziness."—Article quote.

In every town or neighborhood . . . there's always one who is "no good" . . . a modern Rip Van Winkle who . . . is gone when there is work to do . . . or loafs because he cannot find . . . the sort of work he has in mind.

And if he does, a swift attack . . . of "miseries" will hit his back . . . which doctors cannot diagnose . . . when, really, it's an overdose . . . of honest work that gives him fits . . . that leave him quickly when he quits.

His children learn, while they are young . . . that papa's nerves are so unstrung . . . their noise or laughter must be curbed . . . because his rest will be disturbed . . . but when it's time for them to eat . . . he is the first to take a seat.

But, happily, the Lord provides . . . for all of them, for there abides . . . within the walls a working spouse . . . who gives him a free boarding house . . . 10 children for their crowded nest . . . and Uncle Sam provides the rest.*

Matching for Cokes? You're Violating Law

A policeman might look at you a trifle queerly if you ran up and said, "Officer, arrest those two men! I saw them matching for Cokes!"

But technically he could make the arrest, for when you and I gamble for anything of value we are violating Georgia law, according to Robert O'Neil, a solicitor for Fulton Criminal Court.

"I've heard it said that nobody can live through a single day without violating some law," Mr. O'Neil said. "And I guess it's true. There are a lot of old laws on the books and then there are laws like the gambling laws which are observed in the breach, as far as matching for drinks, a dinner check, or something like that is concerned."

Mr. O'Neil said most of Georgia's laws pertaining to gambling were aimed at stamping out organized sorts of gambling, like running a roulette wheel, a numbers book, a floating crap game, or the like. "Just owning some gaming devices is against the law," Mr. O'Neil said.

What brought all this on was wondering about the game with the soft drink bottles—you know, the one where all participants gather around the automatic vendor and see whose bottle came from the farthest away.

Which proves you can gamble on anything.

One Gamble Paying Off

The Georgia Crop Reporting Service says that the crop which is still Georgia's number one cash crop—cotton—is being picked as far north in the state as Barrow County, and possibly farther. Archie Langley, who makes the reports, says this year's crop is a good one, and if the fair weather holds, the picked lint will be clean and give a "good sample."

One of the sights that is getting rarer every year in Georgia is that of a cotton buyer walking down a row of cotton bales, sharp knife in hand to cut the jute bagging. He then pulls out a sample, twists it around in a mysterious manner and comes up with a sample of staple length. This expert needs no ruler to tell the difference between an inch and a 16th and an inch and a 32nd; he's been deciding for years. His keen eyes can also tell the grades: those good, farmer-sounding names like strict low middling or strict good ordinary. Of course the farmer had rather have a grading of good middling, but that's unusual.

Most of Georgia's cotton is picked by hand, giving a fall income to whole families. Prices start at around $2 per hundred pounds picked and then go up as the competition for good hands increases. Pickers charge less for picking in a good crop than they do in a poor one The more cotton there is at hand, the easier it is to pick.

Machines are doing a lot of picking in Georgia, particularly in the flat counties farther south. The machine hasn't been developed yet which will pick as clean as human hands. however.

Georgia has only about 400,000 acres in cotton tihs year, and will harvest about 300,000 bales. Each bale, counting value of lint and seed, is worth about $200, so it adds up to a chunk of money at that.

Daily Guide—Plenty of energy can be released today, and if used wisely could lead to great accomplishment, but there could be sparks flying, setting off little fires here and there in personal relationships. Keep this in mind if you start out feeling very energetic and aggressive; the other fellow is probably going to be feeling peppy and maybe hoping he can force you to let him take over. A clash of wills is likely. The Taureans, who are usually calm and slow to anger, can be roused and ready to rush to take the offensive in any situation at the merest wave of a hand. In the late hours romantic situations are likely to become too emotional.

Happy Birthday, Virgo! The disadvantages you may have had in working out domestic problems in the past two years is nearly over, and next year you can expect to work out things more smoothly with backing of old friends or ties, or through social contacts. The long cycle of change may be accented for you at the end of next July, and in the month following you could go ahead with some new project. The inner tensions which most Virgoans are experiencing can be brought to a focus around June 24, and at that time caution in health is urged. For this fall you have excellent opportunities in matters pertaining to education, travel and professional interests.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India and Pakistan agreed Wednesday to try to keep conditions peaceful along their borders and exchange prisoners captured during several months of small-scale clashes.

The foreign ministers of the two countries said in a communique issued after a conference in Karachi they were unable to reach agreement on border disputes. They said they would leave these for negotiation by the two prime ministers.

School Board To Debate Raises for 4,330 Here

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Salary raises for 4,330 professional and non-professional employes of the city school system costing $482,272 for the 1958-59 school year will be considered at a meeting of the Atlanta Board of Education next Monday night.

A. C. (Pete) Latimer, board president, said the proposed increase would be financed by $450,736 in state funds and an additional $31,536 provided by the city.

The 3,335 regularly elected teachers will get an average raise of $11 a month, if the recommendations are approved. The $31,536 would provide a one-step salary increase for non-professional workers who already are at the top of their respective scales.

Jim O'Callaghan, chairman of the board's finance committee, said his committee will pass on the proposal before the board session at 7:30 p.m. next Monday night.

In addition to the added step for non-professional employes who already have reached the top of existing pay scales, others among the 995 non-professional school employes will get automatic increments to which they are entitled, it was pointed uot.

All teachers of the system will get earned automatic increases in addition to the proposed average $11 a month increase in pay.

Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent, said the proposed raise plan will not affect around 500 employes of cafeterias of the system, since cafeteria workers are employed by the school at which they work and are not employes of the the board of education.

All but 11 top professional personnel of the system will get increases under the plan. These include Miss Jarrell, five assistant superintendents, and five area superintendents.

Jackson Asks $34,000 More for CD but Fraser Answers 'No'

Metropolitan Atlanta Civil Defense Director Elliott R. Jackson Wednesday asked Fulton County's commissioners for an additional appropriation of $34,125 for this year.

County Commission Chairman Carlyle Fraser gave Jackson a flat "no" on the appropriation. "I disapprove of it and will absolutely vote against a nickel," declared Fraser.

The county's other commissioners, James H. Aldredge and Archie Lindsey, said they thought the request needed more study.

In other actions, the commissioners discussed possibly holding a public hearing on a controversial quarry operation, learned that plans for the new county jail will not be ready for at least 10 days and voted to lay a water main in Northside drive.

Jackson presented the supplemental budget request, pointing out that the City of Atlanta increased its CD appropriation by $10,000 this year to $35,000, while the county voted $25,000 but is holding back $10,000 of this.

Discussion of holding a hearing on the quarry operation—which has been fought by south Fulton citizens for more than a year—came up when Dan Hodgson, attorney for Stockbridge Stone Co., operators of Thames quarry, appeared before the commissioners.

He presented the commissioners a folder which he said presented results of an investigation which undertakes to disprove local residents' claims that blasts set off by the quarry damaged their homes and property.

Concerning the jail, consulting architect Herbert Rawlins said design architects on the $2 million jail, plans for which had been promised Aug. 18, haven't completed them and they would not be ready for at least 10 days.

The Northside drive water main, to cost about $7,500, is to be laid between Mount Vernon Highway and Riverview drive.

Tax Accountant Drop Appeal On Dismissal

Former tax accountant John M. Haney Wednesday withdrew his appeal to the Fulton County Civil Service Board of his firing by Tax Commissioner Standish Thompson.

Mrs. Ruth S. Knight, board secretary, told the board which had met to consider Haney's appeal that she had received a letter from Haney requesting withdrawal of the appeal.

Haney was one of three accountants fired by the tax commissioner. The board heard an appeal of former chief accountant Reno C. Dunn, last week and is considering his case. The third accountant, William Ward, has notified the civil service office of his intention to file an appeal.

All three men were charged by Thompson with "disloyalty and gross negligence," a charge which all denied at Dunn's hearing.

Auditors found a $3,000 shortage in tax funds.

Police Seize Still in Shed Near Roswell

Atlanta police Wednesday night carted off an elaborate moonshine still which was turning out "high quality" illegal whisky in unincorporated Fulton County north of Roswell.

Three Atlanta police officers who patrol the unincorporated area found the still in a shed behind the home of H. Ellis Powell, Rte. 1, Woodstock, who was held for questioning, officers said.

The still was carried away intact to be used as an exhibit.

Burglars Loot Wilding Home

LONDON (AP)—Three burglars forced their way into the apartment of actor Michael Wilding, tied up the maid and got away with jewels and furs worth $28,000 Wednesday.

Wilding and his wife were not at home.

The maid, Mrs. Maude Young, 55, said a young man punched her in the face when she answered the door bell. Two other men were with him.

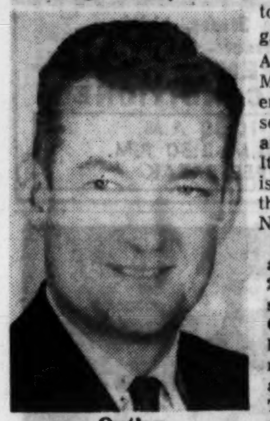
Swamis Are in Season

Before dusting off the football crystal ball, here's a prediction that the Crackers will graduate to a ten-team International League, or renew their Southern Association lease . . . Milwaukee pitchers are sporting a combined ERA of 3.31, a glowing testimonial to pitching coach Whitlow Wyatt.

Tim Cohane, the Look football swami, is providing an extra service at no extra cost. He not only picks the top 20 teams, but lists the games they'll win and lose. Wallace Butts will be interested to hear that Georgia will win seven games, lose only to Texas, Florida and Auburn, and finish 20th in the land. Miss. State will prevent Auburn from enjoying another perfect season. Clemson is scheduled to win eight, lose two and bow to Texas in the Gator Bowl. It should be mentioned that Mr. Cohane is the same prophet who predicted that Kentucky would be the nation's No. 1 team last year.



Outlar

Fred Russell, the Post seer, isn't as bold. He merely names the top 20 teams. Oklahoma is No. 1, presumably in the AP and UPI polls. Ole Miss, ranked fourth, is the SEC's leading representative. Other rated members of Bernie Moore's family are Auburn (9), Miss. State (15) and Tennessee (19). Neighboring Clemson is booked for seventh, which should earn Mr. Frank Howard a trip to the Gator Bowl.

Quotable quote: "Some people call it a free ride, but there's nothing free about it. A kid playing college football these days earns it."—George Dickerson, UCLA coach. . . . Though the Crackers lead the minor league world in pennants, Eddie Moore and the late KiKi Cuyler are the only managers who won 'em back-to-back. Wichita's recall of Dick Phillips and Ray Rippelmeyer dashed Buddy Bates' hopes of joining the exclusive club.

—Oh, Why Did He Ever Leave Wyoming

Walter O'Malley must pay the Dodgers overtime in extra-inning games. Unable to break even over the nine-inning course, the Dodgers boast an 8-0 record in overtime bouts.

Golden Boy Art Aragon, usually sharper out of the ring than in it, insists there's nothing to fear about Carmen Basilio . . . except his punches. They square off in L. A. Sept. 5. . . . The bowling boom continues. B. E. Bensinger, president of an equipment firm, predicts bowlers will spend one billion bucks this year. John Lengyel informs us that the number of teams in Atlanta have doubled since last year, with 176 already on the registration list.

Alabama alumni easily qualify as the most eager fans in the land. Now that Bear Bryant is back, even barbecue tastes better, and more than 1,000 boosters are paying $3 a plate for Sunday dinner at Denny Stadium. . . . If you care to spend a weekend at the beach with football, Washington and Philadelphia are mixing it up in the Gator Bowl Saturday.

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming shouts that the American League owners "will be inviting real trouble for themselves in Congress if they permit the transfer of the Washington franchise while Congress is out of session." I imagine the folks in Laramie and Cheyenne are deeply disturbed. . . . Members of the Living Room AC are in for a busy fall. NBC-TV alone will log more than 100 hours of sports events. . . . Ring Lardner's definition of a loyal football alumnus: "A married man who has been dying of thirst ever since last September."

—Twenty-Game Club Welcomes Hartman

If you're planning to wire for hotel reservations in Milwaukee, save your dough. They're booked solid for the World Series. . . . Frank Lane, the residing genius in Cleveland, says managers tend to make baseball too complicated, shifting players just to make shifts. And doesn't the man who has never rounded up a pennant cast make trades just to be making trades? . . . Modern trend: Concessionaires report that potato chips are outselling peanuts in major league parks.

They'll be referring to Mutual as the Armed Forces Network now that contracts have been signed to air Army, Navy and Air Force games. What, no Marines? Have you noticed that Dizzy Dean has become so educated that he has trouble acting ignorant in front of the TV mike? . . . Speaking of announcers, it was a tough year for the Voices of Kansas City. Two got the ax during the season.

Jim Fridley, the 1958 Southern Assn. batting champion, is the ninth Nashville Vol to gain the distinction in 11 years. . . . Bill Adair, promoted from Augusta to Charleston when Bill Norman was elevated to Detroit, is a cinch for the American Assn. manager of the year award. He promptly turned the race into a runaway, leaving our beloved Wichita cousins in a cloud of pennant dust. . . . Hard-luck Bob Hartman, who looked like a 30-game winner at the outset, is a welcomed addition to the Crackers' distinguished 20-winner club, only the third new member in more than a decade.

Reserve Paul Brown a seat beside Casey Stengel at the banquet of champions, for the Cleveland Browns are gunning for their 12th division title in 13 years. . . . Coach Don Clark, a one-game winner at Southern Cal last season, lists seven reasons why his team must show improvement this season: His wife and six children.

Redlegs Topple Pittsburgh, 7-4

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs erupted for three runs in the seventh inning Wednesday night for a 7-4 victory over Pittsburgh which dropped the Pirates nine full games behind Milwaukee's National League leaders.

George Crowe's single drove in Cincinnati's tie-breaking run in the seventh and pinch-hitter Don Newcombe singled with the bases loaded to drive in two more tallies that clinched the verdict.

Earlier, two errors by Frank Thomas had helped the Redlegs keep apace with the Pirates in the seesaw game that dragged out for three hours.

Don Gross, fourth of five Pirate pitchers, was charged with the defeat while reliever Willard Schmidt was the winner. Dick Groat had two singles and a triple for the Pirates.

Brosnan Makes Cubs Victim No. 10, 9-7

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Brosnan, traded to the Cardinals by the Cubs last May, turned his first appearance against his former teammates into his 10th victory Wednesday as St. Louis leveled Chicago 9-7 in 12 innings.

Brosnan, swapped for third baseman Alvin Dark, yielded four hits, pitching the final four runless innings to give St. Louis its 12th victory in 19 games against Chicago.

Fuell Goes Against SEC at Birmingham

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

BIRMINGHAM—Does an Alabama circuit court have jurisdiction in an eligibility dispute involving an athlete and the Southeastern Conference?

This question is expected to be a point of considerable discussion when "Don Fuell vs. the SEC" kicks off here Thursday.

DON FUELL
To Play or Not to Play

First scheduled for Aug. 20, the hearing was postponed until Sept. 4 at the request of the conference attorney.

Fuell, an Auburn sophomore, was declared ineligible to compete in the SEC after it was ruled he received illegal inducements to enroll at Auburn.

Fuell insists that he is innocent and has filed court action asking the SEC Executive Committee to show cause why it should not reinstate the Guntersville athlete.

Thursday's hearing will revolve around whether legal proceedings can be brought against the conference.

After the hearing, McElroy is expected to take the case under advisement. If his ruling is unfavorable, the conference is expected to request additional time to file answers to the original action.

There is no indication when testimony will be taken in the dispute.

SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore Wednesday night said that members of the Executive Committee have been notified that they don't have to be on hand Thursday.

Moore said that as he understands it, "The two lawyers will argue some law before the judge, and the judge probably will ask them a lot of questions. And then he'll probably take the case under advisement.

"I won't be asked any questions tomorrow (Thursday), and nobody else besides the lawyers will," he added.

Asked whether the conference committee would be called in at a later date, Moore said it depended upon whether it ever became necessary.

Since the SEC did not declare Fuell ineligible to practice, Tiger Head Coach Ralph Jordan has permitted him to work out with the team.

Anthony Squeaks Past McBride

Anthony, 24, from New York City, sent his determined opponent down for the eight-count twice, but never had the fight in the bag.

Crax' Cave Spanks Lookout Cousins, 2-1

Bullpen Ace Turns Starter

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Constitution Sports Writer

CHATTANOOGA — Paul Cave celebrated the Wednesday birth of a baby girl by spanking his favorite cousins, the Chattanooga Lookouts, 2-1.

The bull-pen artist, making one of his infrequent starts, fashioned one of the mound masterpieces of the Southern Assn. season in handing the Lookouts their third defeat in the four-game series.

Lean Cave notched a sparkling five-hitter and faced only 31 batters, four over the minimum, as he conquered the Engel Stadium tenants for the fifth straight time, including three victories over them in the 1957 Shaughnessy playoffs.

The veteran right-hander, now 9-7 on the won-lost charts but 8-3 in starting assignments, issued only one free pass to first base and struck out four, including the final two batters in the game.

A crowd of 1,750 (1,531 paid) groaned in anguish as their Lookouts, needing three victories or as many Little Rock losses to clinch a spot in the playoffs, managed to hit only three Cave serves—other than four of their hits—beyond the confines of the infield.

Cave, making his 46th mound appearance, faced only three batters in six of the nine innings as he sped the pitching pace to get the job done and rush to Atlanta for a look at his newest daughter. The game lasted only an hour and 40 minutes, shortest of the season here.

John Demerit, like Cave a virtual unknown to the headlines in late season, spanked a clutch single to knock across the run that snapped a 1-1 knot and won the game in the sixth inning.

Mike Krsnich trotted in from third on the two-out shot through the third-shortstop hole. Big Mike had lived a baserunner's life on one of two errors by shortstop Bobby Willis and advanced to second and third as Sammy Meeks and Ben Downs went out.

Bunky Stewart, whose string of consecutive victories was snapped at nine straight, fell behind in his duel with Cave in the first inning. Ex-Lookout Bruce Barmes, on base seven straight times in two games, started the left-hander's downfall with an opening single, his fifth of six safeties in nine consecutive trips.

Barmes up a peg and, after Krsnich rolled out, Sammy Meeks singled sharply to left. The blow by Meeks, whose two-run double won the 12-inning thriller the night before, gave him 95 runs batted in for the season.

Stewart (11-4), who failed to finish what he started for only the second time in his last 10 outings, got even in the second frame, when the Lookouts tapped Cave for three of their hits.

Harmon Killebrew and Vern Morgan put opening one-basers back to back, and Killebrew took third when Cave started a double play on Bob Allison's bounder to the box. Danny Georgia Guards Green . . .

LINE GIVES UP EXPERIENCE WHEN LUCAS GOES TO FULL

By DAN KITCHENS

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS—Georgia will start the football season with something of a question mark at guard—mainly because Cicero Lucas is not twins.

When Lucas was moved from guard to fullback in spring practice, it was something of an experimental gamble. A two-way gamble. That Cicero would do well enough to give needed depth at fullback, and that the youngsters would take up the slack at guard.

The first gamble paid off handsomely. Lucas has done so well, particularly as a blocker and linebacker, that Coach Butts feels he has to go through with the second half of the risk.

That part cannot yet be answered, so Butts is holding his breath and hoping—and assessing his guard corps as "green, enthusiastic and below the average in the Southeastern Conference" at this stage of the game.

In fact, Butts compares the Bulldog guards to last year's ends at the start of the season that is a potential trouble spot.

Only two players with letters won as guard return. They are the No. 1 operatives on each side.

PAT DYE

Soph Guard's Solid

On the opposite side, Mike Anderson, 5-10, 205-pound senior from Atlanta, begins his third year at the post. He is experienced, dependable and excels on defense.

Behind these two, there is practically no varsity experience.

(Another of a series on position strength.)

However, the brilliant soph Pat Dye, whom Butts tags "one of two of the finest sophomore linemen I've seen here in a long time," backs up Roland. (Incidentally the other sophomore referred to by the Bulldog headman is center Phil Ashe, also on the current team.) At 5-11, 190, Pat is probably the fastest lineman on the squad, and has unlimited potential.

Another sophomore, also an ex-fullback, is in the No. 3 left-guard post. He's Roy Betsill, 6-1, 190 pounds, of College Park, a redhead who's getting better every day.

No. 4 on the left is the veteran Vernon Cunard, fast and deadly on defense, but at 178 too light to be counted on extensively.

Ramsey, 6-1, 211, impressed as a sophomore, but was injured in the Tulane game and sidelined for the rest of the season.

Ashe, another of the fine graduates off last year's undefeated freshman team, is on the smallish side, 5-11, 188, but with a high degree of mobility. Ashe and Pat Dye were high-school teammates (guards) at Richmond Academy.

So, although they have shown much progress, talent, and interest in early workouts, six of the top eight guards on this Georgia squad must prove themselves in combat before Butts can breathe deeply and know his gamble has paid off.

. . . So Are Tech's

JACKETS LACK EXPERIENCE, BUT GOOD DEPTH IS PRESENT

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Defensively, Georgia Tech is confidently as strong as ever at the guard position . . . but there's uncertainty written on the offensive side of the ledger.

Captain Foster Watkins and Buddy Pilgrim are not preseason candidates for conference honors, but assistant coach Ray Graves says, "those two boys can hold their own. They are as strong as we ever had at Georgia Tech."

Staring (and with erasers in hand, Tech hopes) at the question mark on the offensive blackboard are Bob Stone and John Neal Reed.

(Another of a series on position strength.)

These are the current first-stringers, and the foursome saw varied amounts of service in 1957.

Watkins and Reed logged the most minutes on the clock, each playing about half the time. Pilgrim saw heavy duty late in the season, and Stone spent most of the season on the bench.

Which adds up to not as much experience as in past years, but Graves believes the depth is better. And he also thinks that two-platooning will heal what could be a worrisome wound in the Jacket forward wall.

On defense:

Foster Watkins—has knack of locating ball carrier . . . good tackler . . . terrific pursuit . . . former center . . . lack of stamina fault eased by two-platoon.

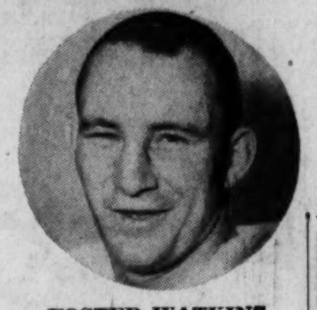
Buddy Pilgrim — Dependable performer late last season . . . lacks size . . . aggressive, can whip bigger men . .. diagnoses plays best . . . equaled in speed only by Biddle.



FOSTER WATKINS

He Captains the Jackets

Larry Clingan—Converted tackle . . . saw little service in 1957 . . . good hustler.

Tom Kelly—Sophomore who's fighting Clingan for No. 2 spot behind Pilgrim . . . had excellent spring training, when he blossomed forth after freshman tenure as second-stringer . . . fights pressure . . . natural defender . . . the man to watch.

On offense:

Bob Stone—Most rugged guard . . . second only to offensive mate John Neal Reed in strength . . . converted end . . . excels as blocker, especially downfield.

Leon Tye — Junior operating behind Stone . . . saw no action in 1957 . . . tries hard.

Stan Goodroe — Like Kelly a sophomore who must learn his lessons rapidly . . . solidly built, with all physical requirements for future greatness.

BROWN AND GUISLER GO IN SCRIMMAGE

ATHENS—Wednesday's first knocking session for the Bulldogs confirmed what has been suspected for some time—George Guisler and Fred Brown could be Georgia's one-two knockout punch this season.

Guisler, working with the first unit of Charley Britt, QB; Don Soberdash, RH, and Theron Sapp, FB, turned in some brutal and fancy stepping. He scored on a four-yard rush, hauled in a Britt pass for a 40-yard marker.

Brown, a sophomore, was perhaps even more impressive than Guisler. The 175-pounder took over Guisler's post in the second offensive backfield unit that had Tommy Lewis at QB; Bobby Towns at RH, and Cicero Lucas at full. He threatened on several beautiful runs to go all the way, only to run into defensive blocks. But finally the chance came, and the little slasher bounded through a hole, faked a couple of secondary men out of their socks, and then outran them for a 30-yard scoring jaunt.

Lucas showed why he's at fullback instead of guard by some bone-shattering blocks, and one fine nine-yard scoring thrust right through the middle of the reserve defensive line.

Captain Sapp also turned in a number of good short bursts. Francis Tarkenton, quarterbacking a third-unit backfield behind a third unit line, showed his freshman form, with slick ball-handling and running. With a classier line in front, he might have been the most effective QB of the workout. —KITCHENS

Jackets Get Scrimmage Tests, Officials Get Dirty Hankies

Penalties Mar Tech Workout

By GEORGE CUNNINGHAM

Casual observers Wednesday afternoon at Grant Field might have thought Georgia Tech was in the laundry business.

Because soiled linen was more prominent on the playing field than sparkling performances as the Jackets raced through a typically ragged first game-type scrimmage.

What it was, really, was football . . . penalty-plagued football in which the varsity Engineers found the new one-arm blocking rule more damaging than the defenses of ambitious red shirts and eager freshmen.

The score, for the record, deemed the varsity two touchdowns superior to the underlings for the more than two-hour tussle. But in the yards gained department, the officials won . . . handkerchiefs down.

Texan Fred Braselton saddled both scorers, driving the white shirts on roundups of 64 and 80 yards that ended in the six-point corral.

Halfback Cal James cracked the final whip on the first drive, storming into the end zone from 15 yards out. And sophomore halfback Travis Huffines bulldogged the last three yards off tackle on the 80-yard trip.

Because coach Bobby Dodd said "penalties put the team so far away from a first down they had to," Braselton traveled the air route frequently . . . and successfully.

The junior quarterback pitched 11 times and completed 8 of 'em for 110 yards. No. 2 signal-caller Walter Howard fired 5, hit 2 for 16 yards.

Reggie Logan, the 140-pound sophomore halfback from Orangeburg, S.C., reminded a gathering of some 250 fans that Jimmy Thompson's successor had arrived at The Flats.

He led the grass-grinders by gaining 74 yards in 6 soirees for a 12.3 average per lug. And the most exciting play of the afternoon found the little water bug zig-zagging 44 yards downfield.

Fred Murphy

Reggie Logan

He aided in the 80-yard scoring march with runs of 4 and 20 yards and was on the first-down end of a 14-yard Braselton aerial.

"Little Reggie was a sight, wasn't he?" Dodd asked, referring to the 44-yarder. Then the Top Techster turned serious:

"It wasn't a good scrimmage. I don't think two-platooning affected it as much as those frequent fouls and mistakes. However, I'm glad we're making the mistakes now while we have time to correct them.

"And I'm not too discouraged about this new blocking rule. Because Tech has the reputation of being penalized less than the other team, so maybe our opponents will have even more trouble with it."

And Dodd has a reason why Tech usually is penalized less.

"You know, some schools we play don't use regular SEC officials for their game scrimmages. But we do for every one of ours."

He reiterated that frequent use of the aerial by the varsity during practice was more of necessity than experimentation. But he warned, "We'll throw more this year because of Braselton and receivers like Jerome Green and Fred Murphy."

Green was absent from the scrimmage taking an exam. Murphy came up with three of Braselton's tosses for 33 yards. End Gerald Burch collared two for 37 yards, and flankmate Al Lederle trapped two for 24 yards.

Behind Rambling Reggie in the ball-toting department came Joe

Luggin' Logan Loose, Lethal

DeLany with 61 yards in 12 totes, James (who fumbled twice) 57 in 13, Lester Simerville 25 in 4 and Chick Graning 22 in 4.

Coaches cited linemen Maxie Baughan, Butch Carter, Foster Watkins and backs Frank Nix, Floyd Faucette and Jimmy Sides for defense.

Cave Spanks Lookouts

The Lookouts didn't know it, but they were through. Only three times after that did a Chattanooga runner reach first.

Cave hit Jesse Levan in the fourth, but picked him off first. Killebrew was left stranded after doubling with one out in the seventh, and the same thing happened to Willis after he walked with one out in the eighth.

Buddy Bates' crew, bent upon beating Mobile out in the ding-dong battle for second place so they can open the play-offs on home soil, now return to Ponce de Leon Park to close the regular season against Nashville. Thursday will be an off day, and Bob Giggie (12-6) will hurl the Friday Ladies' Night game for the Crackers.

The Crackers finished the season 12-10 against the Lookouts, but trailed in Engel Stadium warfare, 5-6.

Cracker Diary — Buddy Bates thanked his 1957 pennant-winning players, some on hand and some many miles away, for making it possible for him to become the recipient of the Southern Assn.'s Manager of the Year trophy.

"I'M AN INCH TALLER, COACH," AUBURN'S TOMMY LORINO (R) SAYS

Alternate Captain Assures Erskine Russell That Jimmy Pettus (L) Is Team's Littlest Back

Rookie Pettus Hands Tigers 'Two-Lorino' Ground Attack

Tommy Hails LH Competitor 'Who's Taller Than I Am'

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala.—Folks around Auburn football practice these early September afternoons have to look real close to tell when Tommy Lorino is running the ball and when it's that other Little Fella.'

The new Lorino on the Plains is a sophomore named Jimmy Pettus—also a left half, almost exactly Tommy's size, and like the Bessemer Bullet down to the last movement.

In fact, it seems that Pettus may have a slight edge in the speed department. On the other hand, Lorino is probably still a bit more slippery. Tommy's a here-one-second, there-another runner that's a constant headache to opposing tacklers.

Both are expected to do plenty of kicking for Auburn, too. Pettus, currently more interested in battling senior Jimmy Laster for the No. 2 left-half slot, will probably do some "spot" punting chores regardless of his success in seeking a second-string job.

"Tommy, as a sophomore, and Jimmy this season are very much alike in both running and kicking ability," agreed backfield coach Buck Bradberry. "Tommy, however, was a little more advanced in that intangible department known as 'football maturity' at the same stages in their careers."

Lorino is not only happy to have the Oxford (Ala.) product around as a competitor, but, laughs Tom, "He's a fraction of an inch shorter than I am—which relieves me of being smallest on the squad."

In preseason dope, both boys are listed at 5-7, 165 pounds. Lorino, however, reported in at a solid 170 pounds—and the added beef apparently hasn't harmed his running in drills to date.

PLAIN FACTS: Picture day on the plains lasted just shy of two hours. . . . Auburn's 59 varsity candidates and 11 coaches posed for several hundred photos during that time. . . . Afterward, coach Ralph Jordan and his staff ran their charges through a moderately long drill on Drake Field.

FIREBALL WAS PRIMED FOR A 500-MILE BATTLE

By AL THOMY

Better athletes, they say, are personalities capable of honing a sharp edge for combat.

Glenn (Fireball) Roberts is proof of the pudding, to toss a loose phrase. A month of rugged physical conditioning had left him ready for the backaching grind, no doubt of that.

Al Thomy

But the Darlington Southern 500 requires another kind of preparation, a mental discipline and a positive outlook. For Fireball this was somewhat more difficult, since he had led all previous eight races and yet never won any of them.

Then, too, he had had several close shaves. "You've got to be in the right place at the right time on this track; otherwise you've had it," he had said before the race. In the past two years he has been at the wrong place at the wrong time and minor accidents sent him to the sidelines.

There was another obstacle. Though he doesn't publicly acknowledge it, Roberts is not fond of the Darlington track. This strikes against the grain of premise that a driver must feel at home to score on a raceway.

So it was with some apprehension that Fireball stood on the edge of the track and himself mumbled before the race:

"The first 50 laps are the hardest. That's when everyone is jockeying for position. Then it settles down. I wish I was going into lap No. 51 right now. . . . You know, sometimes this business scares you a little."

He blinked out a faraway look, returned to reality. "In about six hours we'll all be smarter."

The edge was there. Physically and mentally Fireball was ready. He was alert.

The driver is one-half the battle. The car is the other. And no car was ever put on the Darlington track any better prepared than Frank Strickland's Chevrolet. Paul McDuffie had it honed to the demanding requirements of the track.

Roberts took it from there on a perfect pace.

Contrast this with Curtis Turner, the magnificent charger who charged himself right out of his car. He ran the race too hard, and wide-open sprinters rarely finish the distance runs.

But, as razor-sharp Roberts had said . . . "We'll all be smarter in six hours."

He might have added . . . richer.

DARLINGTON WRAPUP: In the course of wrecks on a track the causes are seldom evident until the drivers have a chance to look back. Cracker Jack Smith, riding a beautiful third before crashing through the first turn guard rail, now knows the cause. Jim Reed's car blew a motor and left a trail of oil on the turn. Smith rode the trail right out of the track. Miraculously, he was unhurt though the machine was crushed after traveling 30 yards down a bank. Mechanic Bud Moore, who inspected the wreckage, said if he ever built a body he would get Smith's roll bar man to install the same kind in his machine.

'Cats Offense Cheers Collier; No. 2 Gator Plunger Injured

Vols 'Progress' In Scrimmage

From Press Dispatches

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Kentucky's Wildcats went through their first scrimmage Wednesday and coach Blanton Collier seemed pleased with the running and passing.

Collier was displeased, however, with the work of the linebackers on defense, and with protection of passers and downfield blocking.

End Burnham Vandy 'Target'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Vanderbilt had a rough-and-tumble scrimmage Wednesday. Guard George Deiderich uncorked a brutal open-field tackle on Cedartown, Ga., end Bill Burnham after the latter caught a pass, and a play later fullback Jim Butler nailed Burnham again. "I thought they were hitting pretty good," Coach Art Guepe said.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee's Vols held a scrimmage session Wednesday, giving coach Bowden Wyatt some pleasure. "We're making progress," Wyatt said. Tailback George Wright operated the first unit with fullback Carl Smith, wing back Don Stephens and blocking back Ken Sadler.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — No. 2 fullback Sonny Giles, a sophomore, suffered a knee injury Wednesday and may be lost to the Florida Gators for a while. Before drills began, the Gators learned junior letterman Blair Culpepper has been advised by his doctor not to play this year because of a leg injury.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Alabama coach Paul Bryant said that the Crimson Tide's football practice sessions appear to be "in a kind of period of indecision."

Cleveland Gets Dolly's Berth

By BERT PRATHER

Wednesday was an exciting day in the life of Georgia Tech's Jimmy Cleveland.

Jimmy Cleveland

When fellow Atlantan Gene Dahlbender Jr., who had taken the second of two qualifying places in the recent Georgia-Alabama sectional, suddenly decided not to go to San Francisco's Olympic Country Club for the 58th National Amateur championship, starting Monday, Jimmy immediately became eligible to join the 200-player field.

Young Cleveland, who'll be the No. 1 man on next year's Jacket golf team, was first alternate in the sectional qualifying, finishing one stroke behind big Dolly.

So, when Jimmy got the good news he immediately hustled out to Charlie Miller's Druid Hills pro shop to pick up his clubs, then booked passage on the 3:30 a.m. plane Thursday for Frisco.

In between, he called Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, who was top qualifier in the Georgia-Alabama sectional, and told Tommy to fix it so they could room together during the tournament. Aaron, University of Florida ace, left Wednesday at noon.

Jimmy was still up in the clouds Wednesday night, but who could blame him?

His first round opponent Monday will be veteran Bobby Knowles of Aiken, S.C. Besides Aaron, Georgia's other entries in this six-day match play championship are Arnold Blum and Alfred Sams of Macon.

Although he wasn't going to the U.S. Amateur, Allen Post, another collegian, was quite pleased with himself Wednesday. Allen Post, who'll return shortly to University of North Carolina, treated himself to a hole-in-one on the 175-yard 14th at Capital City. Watching Allen's perfect three iron hit the mark was playing partner George Beach of Georgia Tech.

Bobby Lemming downed A.T. Harmon 4 and 2, and Jim Folden whipped Dave Morris, 3 to 2, to reach finals of Paul Lavin's Adams Park club championship. Their title match is slated for Sunday afternoon.

ALL OUTDOORS

AFTER ALL, NO FISHERMAN GETS A CATCH EVERY TIME

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Constitution Outdoor Columnist

I met a very charming couple at one of the boat docks where I was loading my tackle aboard, and spent a few minutes talking with them about some bass which had come out of that lake recently.

Charles Elliott

"We read after you sometimes," the gal twinkled, "when we haven't anything better to do. What I've been wondering is—do you ever go and NOT catch fish?"

"Holy haddocks!" I said. "I'd like to meet the guy who scores every time."

"In the fishing stories you write," she insisted, "you always catch fish."

"People don't like to read about your troubles," I countered.

Anyway, the upshot of the conversation with these delightful people was that I promised the next time I came home without specimens of whatever I happened to be angling for, I'd tell about it. And I can assure you of one thing. If Bill Fields, Jesse Outlar and Jim Carson, who run this Outdoor Page, would let me report on all of my unsuccessful fishing trips, I'd never again have to scratch my head for an idea.

I won't tell who with—although it was legal companionship—or where we went (that was legal too), but a few days after I made that promise I was on a lake, angling for bass. It was one of those rare, perfect days when the sun is bright but not too hot, when the air is cool and so fresh that you just don't seem to be able to breathe enough. My little 7½ outboard purred like a Persian from the moment I touched the starter cord, and we couldn't see anything ahead but big bass and singing lines and a stringer as full as we cared to make it.

I don't have to tell you that fishermen are like that. They expect success every time the hook gets wet, but there's no sense of disappointment when a cast fails to produce. There's always the next cast coming up, and the chance that it will be the one. If he doesn't think like that, a Waltonite will soon get ulcers or a new hobby.

Mind you, I'm telling about a usual day in the life of an ordinary fisherman—of which I am the most (ordinary). We first trolled, shallow and then deep, to see if we could learn what depth of water the bass preferred at that season. Since, after five hours, they didn't seem to be in water from one to forty feet deep, my companion wryly observed that they must have gone off into the woods to picnic on terrestrial insects.

Ignoring his half-witted-cism (I'm not sure Mr. Webster would approve of that) we changed our tactics to shoreline angling, trying every lure that would sink or swim, wiggle, dart or pop. We tried the shallow banks, then the deep banks where the old run of the river had gouged out holes. We tried what some fishermen term "cover fishing," throwing our wares into sunken tree tops, and we fished jumbled granite heaps along the bank, all without exciting the slightest enthusiasm of any single member of the finny tribe.

Where a little creek poured into the lake, I went ashore and crawled for a quarter mile up it on my hands and knees to capture half a dozen spring lizards. These we sunk to the bottom and drifted them across several points where I had caught bass before, without even getting the tail bit off one.

Now is the time to tell you that I came up with some unusual gimmick which finally got us into fish and gave us the action we'd been waiting for all day. But it simply didn't happen that way. We even tried the ends of the coves after the sun went down, and we came back to the dock after the first stars were out, without ever getting a single strike from so much as a bream or crappie.

We agreed that we'd had a wonderful day, that it was nice just to be out on the water instead of inhaling our usual share of carbon monoxide. We meant it, too, except that I had a small sense of frustration that we didn't prove ourselves smarter than at least one bass.

We'd gone about the job in what we considered an adequate, experienced manner, and could only console ourselves along the lines of the old Hindu proverb, which provided the thought that though all day long we had fished divinely, Providence had been most kind to the fish.

Chisox Beat Tigers, 1-0

DETROIT (AP)—Frank Lary pitched no-hit ball for six innings but the Chicago White Sox made their only two hits of the ball game good for a seventh-inning run and it stood for a 1-0 triumph over the Detroit Tigers Wednesday.

Dick Donovan, one of the major league's most effective pitchers since the All-Star game break, bested the Detroit right-hander in a stirring pitching due witnessed by 13,303.

Although frequently in trouble, Donovan yielded only five hits—three of them doubles—and squared his record at 12-12.

Decatur's Singing 'Don't Fence Me In'

DeFoor, Lucus, Ansley Return

By EARL SIMPKINS

"You're trying to pin me down and get me to say that this Decatur team will be as good as the one last year, and it won't be that good."

So says Charlie Hall, and he should know because his is the job of coaching that team.

Hall had been asked to compare his backfield to the one he had last year and he didn't care to do so.

"We lost three fullbacks, two halfbacks and two quarterbacks from last year's squad," he said. "And they were boys who really helped us."

One of those quarterbacks was Chuck Reiley who piloted the North to a 7-0 win over the South in the high school all-star game Aug. 14. The other was the second man at the position and that left Hall without an experienced signal-caller.

However, he admits that he won't be hurting too much at the other backfield posts. "We have two fine running halfbacks in Gordon Cranford and Jeff Travis. And we have seen enough of fullback Billy Lee to know that he can go."

There were six starters among the 18 lettermen who left after last season, but with switches Hall still has some experience at most positions.

The line will be strong and will compare favorably to the one the Bulldogs fielded last season. Of course, some old faces will be missed and among them will be Pete Case, he who was named to the high school All-America team and Georgia Class AAA lineman of the year.

But back at their old spots will be Bobby DeFoor, a promising end, guard Tommy Lucus and a fine center named Joe Ansley.

Robert Powell, a 205-pounder, has been moved from guard to bolster the tackle corps, and 200-pound Joe Martin has been switched from defensive to offensive tackle.

BOBBY DeFOOR
End with Promise

Both moves should help as the guards will be well manned by Lucus and Bobby Anderson. Reeder Glass will be operating opposite DeFoor and Wade Parks will get the call to pull on Reiley's shoes at quarterback.

But Hall is a man who doesn't want to be put on a spot. "We just don't have enough experience to win this region," he said. "Marietta and Griffin are going to be too tough to handle. When anyone starts picking the finishers in the Region, I think they should put us down as a contender for third place behind those two teams."

But that was coach Charlie Hall talking, and he doesn't want to be pinned down. Or put on the spot.

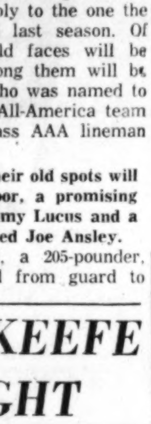
GRADY MEETS O'KEEFE IN OPENER TONIGHT

Grady's reshuffled Grey Knights still rate a slim edge over O'Keefe, and Brown's Rebels are the choices over Smith as 3-AAA dives into a new football season Thursday night.



Jack Fligg

An ankle sprain sustained by quarterback Bobby Dodd Jr., lone Grey Knight backfielder returning with any experience, caused rookie head coach Jack Fligg to call on halfback Frank Austin to open at offensive quarterback, with halfback Jim Howard doing the defensive safety chore. Dodd will see limited action on offense, but won't start for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff at Grady Stadium.

Fullback Hilton Fuller, groomed to replace the "Bull of Parkway Drive," Larry Lafkowitz, is definitely out with a sprained ankle. In his place, Fligg will use Alex Povoliatis.

O'Keefe's lone casualty, according to Dan Kennerly, is end Freddy Cochran, a virus victim. Phil Gober replaces him.

PREP GAMES MAY GO ON TV

Atlanta prep footballers may become TV stars once a week, if a proposed television plan goes through. Definitely, they'll take to the air waves over Radio Station WABE-FM, three times a week.

Three games will be broadcast this weekend over the Atlanta Board of Education's frequency modulation station, 90.1, on the radio dial. With Guy Sharpe handling the play-by-play and Bill Foster doing the color, O'Keefe vs. Grady from Grady Stadium (Thursday), Northside vs. North Fulton from Grady Stadium (Friday) and Bass vs. Southwest from Cheney Stadium (Saturday) will be beamed commencing at 7:25 p.m.

Should the TV become a reality, it would be sent out from either Cheney or Grady Stadiums on a once-weekly basis—only on Thursday nights. Sharpe and Foster would do a simulcast—that is, their radio descriptions would also serve the TV game.

City schools athletic director Sid Scarborough, when contacted about the TV, indicated that it would be a good deal both for the ABE's TV station and for the prep schools' athletic program.

"More people," he said, "will become viewers of the educational TV, and it also should give the kids and the athletic program a boost."

Proposed date for the TV opener is Sept. 11.

The Preparade

Which School Puts Out Prep Coaches? It's Georgia by Overwhelming Margin

By PAUL ATKINSON

The alma-mammiest of the alma maters for Georgia high school coaches? A survey conducted by The Constitution showed the University of Georgia claimed by 50, with Auburn a distant second at 16.

Paul Atkinson

Surprisingly, Mercer University, which has no football team but does have a nifty education department, is listed by 10 football tutors as their alma maters.

And again, surprisingly, Georgia Tech has supplied only five mentors—Tennille's Gene Anderson, Hapeville's Roy Brewer, West Point's Carlton Lewis, Brown's Jack Peek and West Fulton's Jack Hogg.

You'll find Georgia football coaches from such far-flung schools as Gaulledet in Washington, D.C. (Daniel Van Cott, GSD); Notre Dame (Lou Loncaric, Marist), Appalachian (Charlie Hall, Decatur), Oklahoma (Nolan Lang, Headland), Ohio University (Frank Snyder, Rabun County), Tulsa (Frank Fabris, Rossville), Southeastern Oklahoma State (Ben Brown, R. L. Osborne), George Washington (Arlin Barr, Buchanan), Missouri (Jack Clingan, Harris County), and Miss. State (Don Robinson, Turner County; Calvin Ramsey, Avondale).

What does it all prove? That when you speak with a Georgia high school football coach, you never know where his loyalty lies.

NOTED BRIEFLY: Quotable Quote—Murphy's Lefty Thompson to ANI photographer Bill Young after the cameraman had been sucked in by quarterback Jerry Bell's nifty ball-handling: "You didn't see the play. I wish you'd play defense against us this season." . . . Add captains-elect—Glynn County, Joe Moss and Jimmy Dix. Richmond Academy, Gilroy Garner and Lewis Levy, 275-pound guard the state's largest leader. Benedictine, Richard Kelly. Marist, David Hynes. . . . Add regional favorites—Waycross in 2-AA because of nine lettermen returning to coach Dub Kendrick. . . . Soph of the Year nominee—Benedictine end Hank Lehwald, a double-duty fellow who even does the kicking for Vic Mell's Cadets.

IT COULDN'T HAPPEN TO NICER PEOPLE—DeKalb County and Avondale dedicate their sparkling, brand-spanking-new 5,300-seat stadium Friday, fittingly, with the renewal of the county's most natural rivalry, Avondale vs. Decatur. . . . Nomination for most improved team—Gene Goff's Chamblees, 0-10 in '57 but with potentialities to go at least 6-4 this time around. . . . One person you wouldn't care to meet in a dark alley—huge Bass tackle Bryson Mitchell, the 6-3, 220-pound "kid." Amazingly, his "little" brother, 6-2, 190-pound Aubrey, should grow to be as large or larger than Bryson.

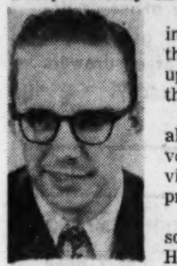
New Chrysler Look Aimed at Comeback

By JIM MONTGOMERY
Constitution Business Editor

MIAMI BEACH—Chrysler Corp., which gambled and lost millions this year on the virtually identical "Forward Look" styling responsible for its spectacular comeback last year, will try to recoup with very noticeably altered 1959 cars.

Most visibly changed will be its top-selling Plymouth, sporting an even lower-looking silhouette and higher-flying tail fins that sweep smoothly all the way up.



Jim Montgomery

Substantial changes in appearance, representing modification of rather than departure from the "Forward Look" styling theme, will also show up on the luxury-priced Imperial as well as on the Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler lines.

Many of these and other styling details, along with new engineering features, will be revealed here Thursday to some 350 newsmen invited to the company's 1959-model national press preview.

Just like last year, it is being held at this resort city's extravagantly furnished Americana Hotel.

But any other resemblance to a year ago is purely coincidental.

For the first half of 1958 was the most disastrous in Chrysler's 33-year history, a complete pendulum swing away its record high sales and earnings in the first six months of 1957.

Actual figures make the contrast seem even more brutal.

In this year's first half, the company sold 374,222 vehicles for $1,075,100,000 and a net loss of $25,200,000. In the same 1957 period it garnered a profit of $89,700,000 by selling 817,501 units for $2,061,000,000.

With the exception of American Motors Corp., the whole auto industry has taken a sales beating with its 1958 cars, but General Motors and Ford did manage to wind up the first half in the black.

Thus, Fortune Magazine recently went so far as to label a recent article on the company's 1958-model troubles, "Chrysler's Private Depression."

Ominous as that sounds, however, Chrysler officials are far from ready to be counted out.

For one thing, the recession has made this the worst industry sales year since 1946. This year's total sales are expected to wind up around 4½ million, far below the somewhat cautious predictions made by industry spokesmen last fall.

Ironically, Chrysler President L. L. (Tex) Colbert was among the most confident at that time, and he has probably had difficulty forgetting the following tentative forecast he made here on Sept. 26, 1957:

"On the basis of indications we have right now, it looks as if retail sales of new cars in the United States during 1958 may rise above the six million mark for the third time in the history of the industry."

The recession that lay around the corner was but dimly seen by anyone when those words were spoken, but soon thereafter it tightened its grip on the nation in general and the auto industry in particular.

Now, apparently, the worst is over—the corner is being turned. Federal financial managers just last month moved to slow down what they termed an "inflationary psychology."

And soon the American auto industry will unveil its 1959 models for what it hopes will be public acceptance.

This is the atmosphere in which Chrysler will introduce its new lines around mid-October—barring as yet unforeseen circumstances.

It should be enlightening, meanwhile, to hear and question and consider the thinking of Chrysler officials as they show the new cars here Thursday and Friday.

Will the restyled 1959 models sell? Why? What of the nation's economy? Of negotiations with the UAW? How soon will Chrysler Corp. be able to bail out of its financial setback of 1958? And how about small cars? Prices?

These are among the questions newsmen will put to company officials. Their statements and answers, as well as further details on the new models, will be covered in succeeding stories.

Roche Sees Business Improving

James M. Roche

James M. Roche, a GM vice president and general manager of the Cadillac Division, cited current conditions relative to employment, construction, personal bank deposits, income and gross national product as "indicative of the basic strength of the economy.

"While attention has been focused on the number of unemployed, actual employment is at a very high level . . . and there is every indication that the number of employed and the average hours will continue to improve in the foreseeable future."

Roche was in town for a daylong dealer preview of the 1959 Cadillac, slated for public introduction Oct. 1. Some 550 distributors, dealers and salesmen from 11 Southern states attended the meeting.

The GM official noted that Cadillac's 1958 models, despite the recession, reached an all-time high penetration of 59.6 per cent of the high-priced car market. He expressed "confidence and optimism" regarding sales of the 1959 models.

$260 Million Tax Tonic Ready for Smaller Firms

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's signature Tuesday put into effect a small business program providing 260 million dollars of tax relief to small firms in its first year.

Meeting some of the more important tax problems of small businessmen, the new law is designed to increase the volume of capital financing available to small firms, preserve internal business funds for expansion and prevent the breakup of small companies.

One of the chief aids it provides small businessmen is authority to write off 20 per cent of the cost of both new and used property in the year of acquisition.

This fast first-year tax allowance on depreciable property applies to equipment and assets with a useful life of six years or more.

The special first year write-off, retroactive to last June 30, is limited to property valued up to $10,000—or $20,000 in the case of a husband and wife filing a joint return.

The bill also extends from two to three years the period in which businesses may carry back current losses to offset previously earned profits for tax purposes.

Three three-year net operating loss carry-back is available from the calendar year 1958 or such portion of a fiscal year as falls within 1958.

It increases from $60,000 to $100,000 the minimum credit against income of accumulated or retained earnings.

Under present law, in addition to the regular corporate income tax, an accumulated earnings tax of 27½ to 38½ per cent is imposed on accumulated corporate earnings. The increase in the credit is effective for taxable years ending after Dec. 31, 1957.

More favorable tax treatment also is afforded on losses on small business stock.

The law provides that ordinary loss rather than less favorable capital loss treatment may be taken on the sale or exchange of small business stock. This treatment is available both to individuals and partnerships with the total stock offering of any corporation eligible for ordinary loss treatment limited to $500,000.

Class of '74... maybe!

HE'S your boy, and you want him to go to college.

But twelve years from now when he's ready to go, a college education could easily cost at least $10,000.

And that's a lot of money — enough to pose a really serious problem.

No, we don't have a guaranteed solution to that problem. But we would like to suggest that one of the best answers for most people lies in good common stocks. In putting their extra money to work in the Monthly Investment Plan where it can grow as American business grows.

For example, let's suppose that your son is six . . . that there's still twelve years until he goes to college . . . and that you decide to invest $50 a month, plus any dividends you receive, in good common stocks.

Now we don't know which stocks you might buy—you have your choice of some 1,200 listed on the New York Stock Exchange—so let's just use the average performance of the 425 stocks in Standard and Poor's Industrial Stock Price Index over the past twelve years and see what happened.

In the twelve-year period you would have invested $7,200.

After deducting all your commission costs and a maximum capital gains tax of $2,389, the stock you owned now would be worth $18,727—more than enough to take care of college.*

Of course, the past twelve years have been particularly good ones for investors. All companies don't always pay dividends, and stock prices can go down as well as up. So nobody could promise that you would make out as well over the next twelve years.

But if your stock paid an average dividend of 5% in the years ahead, and if its price increased 3% a year—the average annual increase since 1900 for all stocks on the Exchange—you'd still have $10,805 for your son's college expenses after all commissions and capital gains taxes.

If you think common stocks can help send your children to college, we think the time to start investing is now.

All commissions figured at current rates. No provision made for taxes on dividends since these depend on individual incomes.*

Without charge, please mail me your informative booklet, "THE STORY OF THE MONTHLY INVESTMENT PLAN," and the list of 20 stocks selected by your Research Department for long term investment.

Market Climbs To High Ground

Sturdy Investment Demand Boosts High Quality Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market cracked through the old 1958 high in irregular and spotty trading.

Unusually sharp rises for Commonwealth Edison, Eastman Kodak and American Telephone pulled a lot of weight in shoving the market averages to a 1958 peak.

KEY STOCKS

Among other key stocks gains were from fractions to about a point.

Investment demand was sturdy, as evidenced by the climb in selected high quality stocks. At the same time, speculative interest in lower-priced issues continued.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.94 to 513.71, passing the old '58 closing high of 512.42.

The business news background continued favorable on the whole. Chemicals, motors, electronics, drugs and selected utilities did well. Steels and oils were mostly lower.

TAPE LAGS

The market was mixed at the start and the ticker tape fell behind transactions for a period of four minutes at the opening. Trading moderated and prices assumed an upward pattern. Many gains were clipped and losses established late in the day.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed on volume of 1,070,000 shares compared with 970,000 Tuesday. Gainers included Molybdenum, Thiokol and Technicolor. Among losers were Creole Petroleum, Roosevelt Raceway and Fairchild Camera.

Corporate bonds were irregularly lower.

U.S. government bonds continued to recover.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Sept. 3 (AP)—The cotton textile market was slow Wednesday. Mills reported only spot buying of print cloths, broadcloths and a few other constructions.

In the sheetings section some producers raised asking prices in an effort to get spot prices more in line with quotations in forward delivery. Bark cloth, prominently used by the drapery trade, also was reported to have moved up slightly.

Average makes of the popular 80 square print cloth were held by most mills at 17¾ cents a yard although some of the lesser qualities declined slightly.

The Sydney wool market was steady according to private Australian reports.

In rayon goods converters were still buying on a hand-to-mouth basis for the most part.

DATA PROCESSING SYSTEM

First of IBM's line of fully transistorized data processing systems is the new IBM 7070—the most powerful and completely balanced system in the medium-scale computer field. It combines, for the first time in a solid state system, higher storage capacity, faster computing speeds, new high-speed input-output units and a complete programming system. In short, the IBM 7070 gives more performance per dollar than any system in its class.

The SYSTEM: Transistor design lowers initial cost, minimizes cooling power and maintenance needs. "Building block" design grows as you grow. Other exciting features: IBM 7070 "reads," "writes," computes simultaneously; provides "automatic priority processing" for most economical use of system time. Ninety-nine built-in indexing words—more than in any other system—mean fewer operating instructions, faster, simpler programming. RAMAC® files provide immediate access to data.

The SERVICE: Unmatched IBM systems know-how is part of every IBM 7070 "package." From education of your personnel to top-notch service engineering, from program planning to testing—IBM men and methods stand by you to assure profitable operation as fast as possible. In addition, with the IBM 7070 you will receive a library of advanced programs at no extra cost!

The SAVINGS: Major design breakthroughs make possible lower lease or purchase prices, lower operating costs. For example, the IBM 7070 will sort at least 30% more economically than other computers. And equally important are the savings you make through added efficiency and more complete management information . . . with the IBM 7070.
